Street men paint home of official

Floyd David Moss, president of the Pontoon Beach Village Board, said yesterday he used two Pontoon Beach Street Department employees to paint the trim on the front of his house and one side of the home Tuesday. He said they were off-duty and were paid for their time.

Moss said the two workers, hired under the Madison County Manpower Grant at no direct cost to village taxpayers, were off duty on a "comp day" which, he explained, is a complimentary day off in return for overtime work done.

He said the village hires three Manpower workers for the street department, but one has been sick for some time. The other two worked some overtime and had off-time coming.

Moss said the men "volunteered" to paint the trim and side of his home for $10 each, which he said he paid by personal check. They worked one and one-half hours each, he said.

Village Trustee Paul Bennett, chairman of the village's street and alley committee, said he had, "No comment at this time," about the issue.

Suit seeks to restrain Oath group

Suit was filed Tuesday in the Madison County Circuit Court seeking an injunction restraining President Milton Morris and other OATH (Organization for Advancement of The Handicapped) officers and board members from continuing the group's activities.

The suit by an OATH member, Mrs. Barbara Castillo of Granite City, alleges that OATH "without proper or valid consent of the board of directors has billed and charged certain expenses to the 708 Board, a public agency set up and financed by the Madison County Board."

It asserts that "corporate assets are being misapplied or wasted, in that personal loans to certain persons in helping to set up OATH have been repaid with moneys received from the 708 Board."

Allegations include that Morris has "conducted business with OATH by selling their own personal business and without first obtaining bids for said items so sold to OATH." Morris had denied various allegations about the group's conduct.

The suit asserts that "OATH is unable to carry out its purposes because a number of members of the board of directors, and members of OATH, are fearful of their personal safety and economic conditions, they were to express their own views as to OATH."

The organization has been purchasing and improving the former Steelworkers Club building at 612 State St., Madison.

OATH bought the facilities to lease them for a handicapped production center. The center is operated by Specialized Services, a Madison County group funded partly by the state and by the 708 (Madison County Mental Health) Board.

Morris has been critical of Specialized and said he hopes to order the agency out of the building when a lease expires in May.

He has sought to persuade 708 to allow OATH to be an operating agency as well as a landlord, and has succeeded in having funds placed in the county budget for such purposes. In addition, they generally believed that some funds obtained through the 708

DRAMATIC RESCUE EFFORT TODAY at 15th and State streets as Granite City firemen and Granite City and Madison police force open a car door to remove a man trapped inside after a crash at 8 a.m. today.

Four hurt today; man is rescued

Four persons were injured in a two-car accident at the curve in State Street near 15th Street at 8 a.m. today.

Raymond Holt, 3203 Kirkpatrick Homes, driver of one of the cars, was charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, not having a driver's license and not having valid insurance.

The southbound Holt auto allegedly crossed the center line and collided with the northbound car of Mary Jane Raphael, 2261 Clinton Drive. Holt's auto then spun into a sign pole on the west side of the street and continued to spin, coming to a stop against a billboard.

Billy Joe King, St. Louis, a passenger in Holt's car, was removed unconscious from the car and was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Rescue workers had to pry open the passenger door of Mrs. Raphael's auto to remove her husband, Theodore L. Raphael, who was trapped in the car. Another ambulance took him to the hospital.

The Granite City fire department was called to wash gasoline from the pavement after the accident.

Venice teacher agreement

The Venice Board of Education and Venice Local 955, American Federation of Teachers, ratified a two-year salary agreement this week.

The new agreement calls for an across-the-board, cost-of-living payment of $500 during the current school year with the same amount ($500) to be added to the salary schedule at each step in 1976-77.

Negotiations between the teachers' local and school board have taken place on a continuing basis since February, Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers said.

Board members signed the contract at Monday night's school board meeting. Local 955 members ratified the agreement Tuesday.

Starting salary in the Venice School District for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree is $8,834 annually, or $881 monthly based on a nine-month school term. The top range after 10 years for a teacher with a master's degree, plus 16 hours, is $15,975, or $1,597 monthly based on the nine-month figure.

The $500 lump sum payment added to the total amount of the annual salary this year will be included as part of the actual wage schedule in 1976-77, raising a beginning teacher's

Construction of tavern resumes

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

The Granite City Council resolved Monday night a neighborhood controversy over drainage facilities involved in construction of a new lounge building at 334 (rear) Nameki Road, only to be confronted with two other issues designed to block building and operation of the new tavern.

Acceptance of new drainage plans by the aldermen dissolved the basis of a stop work order on the lounge construction, however, and B. C. Gitch, owner of the new lounge which is to be known as the O.K. Corral, said construction work was resumed Wednesday.

Even before council members began a discussion of newly-proposed drainage plans for the project, a delegation of residential objectors submitted to the aldermen a new petition challenging the issuance of a liquor license for the tavern.

The petition was signed by approximately 350 persons.

The other problem was posed by Seventh Ward Alderman Ronald Coleman who reminded council members that the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency issued a ban against new sanitary sewer tap-ons earlier this year as the result of an inspection by EPA officials of a by-pass pipe that carries raw sewage into Nameki ditch near Johnson Road.

Coleman told the council he had called EPA offices at Springfield for a clarification of the prohibiting order and was told that while it may not affect the tap-on of an occasional residence, it strictly forbids sewer tap-ons for any structure in which more than 15 persons would be using sewage facilities.

On this basis, Coleman said, (Continued on Page 3)

KEYNOTE SPEAKER. Edward B. Fry, director of the Reading Center and professor of education at Rutgers University, will be the keynote speaker Saturday at the 11th annual reading conference at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The author of numerous books, monographs and journal articles, as well as the developer of curriculum materials, Fry will speak at 11:45 a.m. on "Readability Versus Reading Ability." The conference begins with registration at 7:30 a.m. Saturday and continues until 2 p.m., featuring 21 panel discussions groups and more than 30 exhibits of reading materials from the primary through senior high levels.

Simmons held the committee post for a number of years. Simmons was succeeded by Hagnauer as chairman of the county Democratic Central Committee, following the resignation of Walter "Buck" Simmons.

Political observers said there has been discussion of the possibility of developing a slate of candidates, or a partial slate, at the county and district level.

Such a slate would oppose that backed by other portions of the county party in a factional fight for primary nominations.

Filing for the March primary will open Dec. 8 and continue through Dec. 15, followed by a five-day withdrawal period.

Road opening ordered

Chouteau Township Highway Commissioner James Estes has been officially ordered to remove a cable blocking Franko Lane between Old Alton Road and Route 3, and to repair the road, Lester Miller, Madison County superintendent of highways, said Wednesday.

Miller said he has received several complaints from Mitchell area residents that the cable is a township road and has been in the hands of the township highway department, but has been blocked for the convenience of some property owners.

He said he ordered Estes Friday to remove a padlock and cable allegedly across the road since about Nov. 10, but the cable has remained across the road this week.

Franko Lane is north of Interstate 270 and goes from the area of Route 3 to the area of Route 3. Although it often is too muddy to be full of holes for use, numerous persons use it when it is repaired as the main access from the northern portion of the Old Alton Road area to Route 3.

One resident who lives on Franko Lane alleged that several township residents have been given keys to the padlock holding the cable in place.

That resident questioned why only some township residents should be allowed to use the road when all the township's residents pay road and bridge taxes and special hard road and bridge taxes to maintain it.

Miller said Friday he agreed with those issuing the complaints and told Estes he had to either open the road or begin proceedings to have it vacated.

"That is a public road and a public road must be open to the public," Miller told the Press-Record.

He said Estes agreed Friday to take down the cable, but on Tuesday highway department workers put up a sign at the east end of the road stating, "Road closed."

There already had been a "dead end" sign at the same place.

There also is a sign by the cable which reads, "Trespassers will be prosecuted."

There are two lakes near where the road is closed. The lakes contain ducks and are used for private hunting.

There also is farmland nearby.

board amended an ordinance which had required a $100 village license for each vending or game machine in the village.

Moss appealed for an amendment to set a maximum fee of $50 for each establishment housing the machines, saying he did not feel the $10 per machine license fee was fair to anyone having several vending or game machines in an establishment.

He cited Funland Miniature Golf Course, 3820 Pontoon Road, which has 20 vending and game machines.

"He was paying as much for his license as a tavern does, which does not seem logical," Moss told the board.

The trustees then approved amending the ordinance to require a maximum of five machine licenses at any one establishment.

Moss said the establishment primarily is operated by the three owners and by police or others with arrest powers. He said at least two adults, one with arrest powers, are on the premises daily from 3 p.m. to midnight, the hours The Place is open.

He said charges by one resident that police have been stationed there while on duty are false.

"We use only off-duty officers or auxiliary officers or someone with arrest power, but never while they are on duty for the police department," Moss asserted.

He said that despite village action lowering the license fees a total of $50 for the machines, The Place has paid over $800 for all the various licenses required, including a $20 village vendor license, a $25 village business license, $10 per machine for state licenses and other amounts for required state and federal licenses.

Moss said there are 48 machines in the establishment, including 13 pinball machines, six foos-ball machines and many other gaming machines.

Responding to reports that persons under the age of curfew have been seen there after curfew hours, Moss said the state curfew has been found unconstitutional by an Appellate Court and is not valid. "We will follow the law," he said.

He said the establishment used to be open from noon to midnight, but changed its opening time this week to 3 p.m. to avoid having children who should be in school playing games there instead.

Operating Engineers' new training project will provide roadway

Groundbreaking ceremonies Tuesday, Nov. 20, at a roadway site on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus will mark the beginning of a new operating engineers training cycle under the direction of the area Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee (JATC).

Officially known as the Whiteside Southwest Connector Training Roadway, the new road will be a mile in length, connecting Circle Drive and Bluff Road on land homesteaded by William B. Whiteside before 1800. The university has used a narrow farm lane across the property since it was acquired in 1965. A luncheon in the University Center for representatives of the International Union of Operating Engineers (IUOE), Southern Illinois Builders Association (SIBA), Southern Illinois Contractors Association (SICA), state and federal agencies, legislators, area dignitaries and university administrators will be followed by ceremonies and aerial and ground tours of the road site on the west side of the central campus.

Keynote speaker for the occasion will be Reese Hammond of Washington, D.C., director of research and training for the IUOE. The JATC program, designed to create job opportunities, upgrade skills of union members and train members of minority groups, is sponsored by Operating Engineers Local Union 520 at Mitchell, the SIBA and the SICA, with funding from a variety of sources, including the Manpower Development Training Act and the Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

The 24-foot roadway will conform to Illinois Department of Transportation (DOT) specifications, with District Eight of DOT providing design and engineering assistance. A state helicopter will be at the ceremonies to conduct aerial tours.

The project is the third JATC training program involving SIUE property since the program was initiated by Local 520 three years ago. A seven-mile Madison County bicycle trail developed on unused Illinois Terminal Railroad Co. right-of-way crosses the southeast side of the campus. And, last year, the JATC completed a parking lot project which nearly doubled the available parking area for the Mississippi River Festival on the campus.

"All of this cooperation has benefited all of Southwestern Illinois greatly," according to SIUE President John S. Rendleman. "As a result of this program, many minority workers have achieved status in the union and existing members of the local have had the chance to upgrade their skills by working with more advanced equipment."

"The university," the president continued, "because of the scope of its interests and the size of its facility, has been able to offer an opportunity for a program of the necessary size and scope demanded by present day requirements."

"Because of the work accomplished by these programs, SIUE has benefited immeasurably as a public institution, at a considerable saving of taxpayers' money." According to Albert Dave Downs Jr., coordinator and administrator of JATC for Local 520, more than 300 persons have participated in the training program in the three-year period.

"Of the total, 60 came in at the entry level, learning from scratch a significant set of skills. The other 250 upgraded their abilities in a number of ways," Downs said. "Further, 88 members of minority groups found new doors of opportunity opened to them."

The road project is expected to provide training opportunities for two to three years, Downs said.

Only cost to the university will be for materials to surface the road, considered minimal in comparison with the overall design, engineering, earth moving and roadbed preparation costs, officials said.

Illinois abortion law now requires consent of husband or parents

On a 36-16 override vote in the Illinois Senate, a restrictive abortion proposal became law Wednesday. The House overrode the veto 109-44 earlier. A court test of the law's constitutionality is expected.

The new Illinois statute requires a wife to obtain her husband's consent before undergoing an abortion. A girl under age 18 must get the consent of her parents.

The law bans abortions after the first 12 weeks of pregnancy.

through injections to induce labor and kill the fetus. It also prohibits scientific research on aborted fetuses.

A physician now must certify that a fetus would not be viable with reasonable medical certainty if aborted. And he must graphically present the appearance and capabilities of a fetus to a woman before performing an abortion.

Women seeking abortions are to be warned of any possible dangerous side effects, including sterility.

Charge 2 in office burglary

Benjamin Favier, 18, of 2141 Cleveland Blvd., and a juvenile boy have been charged with burglarizing two offices on the second floor of 1838 Delmar Avenue Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, the offices of Dr. Peter Lee and United Auto Workers Local 1715, which are across the hall from each other, were reported as having been burglarized.

Entry to the building was believed gained through a rear door which may have been left unlocked Monday evening. The door to Dr. Lee's office was forced open and the office was ransacked, with soda from eight soft drink cans dumped on the floor and the furniture in the office and waiting room cut and destroyed.

Taken were a $500 camera, a quantity of drugs and syringes, $25 in cash, some surgical instruments and three prescription pads.

At the union office, the door was forced open and three rooms were ransacked with sugar and coffee thrown on the floor, filing cabinets searched and papers thrown on the floor, great on a chair and the safe moved from the wall, but not opened. A tape player, key rings, bibles and a checkbook were taken.

Granite City police started an investigation which led to the arrest of the juvenile boy at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday. Favier was arrested in the 1700 block of Edison Avenue a short time later and was charged Wednesday.

Officers said they have recovered a tape player, key rings, bibles, a camera, rubber stamps and other items believed taken in the burglaries.

Favier's bond was set at $10,000 by Judge Horace Calvo yesterday and he was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Whether efforts will be made to squeeze State Treasurer Alan Dixon off the state ticket either, or just out of the governor's race, may become known during state Democratic screening meetings, changed today to Nov. 25 in Springfield and Dec. 1 in Chicago.

Need governor who won't pick fights—Thompson

Illinois needs a governor who does not intentionally create friction with legislators and others as a means of enhancing an image of representing "the little guy," James R. Thompson told the Southern Division, Illinois Manufacturers' Association, Tuesday night.

The Republican governor hopeful, who addressed a dinner gathering of several hundred at the Missouri Athletic Club, through June 1975 was U.S.

attorney for the Northern District of Illinois. He has been widely praised for successful prosecution of scores of public officials and crime leaders.

The tall, bespectacled lawyer said he would be impartial and would listen to the views of people of all walks of life.

He assailed the present governor for allegedly politicizing government issues and for going out of his way to find controversy when often there might be quicker and better solutions.

Thompson said Walker tactics have helped create an anti-business climate that is harming Illinoisans' efforts to preserve and increase job opportunities.

Haddad, minister of music, said all four of the church choirs will be singing and the Youth and Adult choirs will be singing and the Youth and Adult choirs will combine to present two choral arrangements. Two touring vocal groups, Charity and the Wind's, also will be performing. The pastor, Roy Johnson, invited the public to participate in the ThankSing.

CYO paper drive

City to buy new furnishings for council chambers

The Granite City council plans to dress up its council chambers with new tables and new upholstered swivel chairs. Members of the council Monday night, acting on low bids, authorized the City Hall committee to buy two new tables at a cost of $398 each from Triangle Typewriter Co., and 12 new chairs from Grahams' at a cost of $73 each.

The aldermen also opened two bids on installation of Opti-Com equipment in Granite City's traffic signal system, but both were rejected because they exceed the amount budgeted for the work. New bids will be called.

The Opti-Com system causes traffic signals to turn to green upon the approach of emergency vehicles.

News notes

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. destroyed evidence of hundreds of illegal wiretap devices utilized over a 35-year span, the Chicago Sun-Times alleged during the weekend. A telephone spokesman said wiretap findings were not referred to state or federal authorities but that customers were notified if taps were found on their phones.

William M. Rentschler, Lake Forest, 1968 Nixon campaign manager in Illinois and a 1970 U.S. Senate candidate, and two associates were convicted Thursday of fraud in the sale of stock in a Malaysian timber firm.

Whether efforts will be made to squeeze State Treasurer Alan Dixon off the state ticket either, or just out of the governor's race, may become known during state Democratic screening meetings, changed today to Nov. 25 in Springfield and Dec. 1 in Chicago.

The Illinois Senate failed in a test vote Wednesday to override a veto of $80 million in public school funds that were originally promised and later trimmed by the governor. With 30 votes needed to override, the motion failed 26-31, two senators voting "present." A bill carrying override backers had derailed near Joliet yesterday morning, with 39 injured. Override may be attempted again tomorrow.

The U.S. Senate last night passed 52-48 a controversial bill to broaden picketing powers at construction sites. It passed the House previously. An amendment accepted by the House would exempt building of homes with three or less floors.

Convicted of two felonies, State Rep. Webster Borchers (R, Decatur) has at least temporarily forfeited his House seat. Illinois Attorney General William Scott ruled Wednesday. Borchers was convicted of theft and misconduct involving use of his expense allowance.

A newly-completed hillside drainage plan by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission utilizes the Cahokia (Hardrock) Canal and Harding Ditch as principal storm drainage channels.

Illinois Comptroller George Lindberg charged Tuesday the Walker administration is delaying payments to persons who do business with the state. He said "such a slowdown, if it continues, will have the effect of shifting the cash flow problems of the state to the private sector, allowing the state to partially abandon its fiscal responsibility."

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce says the state lottery is enticing some families to waste wages needed for other goods.

Gov. Daniel Walker will back a full set of 169 Illinois delegate candidates pledged to support him for the Democratic nomination as President.

By a 19-4 vote Monday, the Regional Commerce and Growth Association board endorsed its study group's finding that Lambert Airport should be improved and that land should be acquired for a future airport at Columbia-Waterloo.

State clerical employees have chosen the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees as bargaining agent. The vote was 4,986 to 2,997 for the Illinois State Employees Association and 864 for no union.

Efficiency of unemployment and aid departments debated

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Dan Walker's political fate may well be decided by how well three controversial state agencies are able to do their jobs.

They are the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security in the State Labor Department, the State Department of Public Aid, and the Department of Children and Family Services.

The first two especially are important because they deal with thousands of persons directly affected by the most serious problem facing the nation today — the business recession.

Unemployment has been a serious matter in several Illinois cities and areas for months. But the situation took a shocking turn for the worse in September. While the unemployment picture brightened slightly over the United States as a whole, just the opposite was true in Illinois.

Instead of declining, unemployment in this state shot up virtually a full point with almost 10 per cent of those deemed willing and able to work unable to find jobs.

This means that almost half-a-million persons in Illinois are out of work. The sharp hike in jobless could scarcely have come at a worse time.

The process of mailing out unemployment compensation checks to the unemployed in Illinois has been a mess for months. Delays ranging from six weeks to six months have not been uncommon.

The situation became so bad that Walker in mid-September, partly in response to pressure from organized labor, was forced to order a drastic shake-up in the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security (IBES).

Out went the bureau's director, Christopher N. Nugent, and his chief assistant, Billie Jean Paige.

Replacing them were Lawrence I. Richardson as director, and Robert L. Haugher as second in command. But questions immediately were raised as to whether Richardson has the administrative ability and experience to clear up the mess and effectively direct the operation. Shortly before being named to the IBES position, Richardson resigned as deputy Illinois Secretary of State, citing poor health (high blood pressure) as the reason.

However, Richardson is recognized as an expert in the data processing field and it was said that this background especially will qualify him to speed up the unemployment claims processing.

In another move to break the logjam, the state opened up two new unemployment insurance offices in Chicago, where the problem is the worst.

Like other governors before him, Walker faces the monumental challenge of operating the huge Illinois Department of Public Aid in a manner that will avoid bankrupting the state.

Welfare expenditures currently account for about a fifth of the state's almost $10 billion budget and, because of the recession costs are rising steadily. It is anticipated that Illinois relief costs will soar well above $2 billion during the next 12 months.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

About 1 million children alone receive state aid in Illinois. Job layoffs during the past year also have increased sharply the number of adults on welfare.

Walker's track record in administering the program has not been good. His original director of the Public Aid Department, Joel Edelman, quit in less than two years claiming unwarranted interference from the governor's office.

In resigning, Edelman also charged Walker with putting patronage workers into the department and paying them with public aid funds.

Legislative criticism of the department has continued under Edelman's successor, James Trainor, hailed on his appointment as a "management trouble-shooter." Early this year Auditor General Robert G. Cronson issued a report charging that the department was in a state of chaos because of administrative inefficiency.

However, Trainor contended that the shortcomings reported in the audit had long since been corrected.

But troubles continue in the department, with caseworkers frequently contending they are overworked. Federal agencies also have been critical of the department administration.

Efforts to clear the Illinois relief rolls of ineligible recipients are continuing, but the results remain mixed.

A financial squeeze plus administrative difficulties could still plunge the entire welfare program into chaos before election day. Walker risks facing the ire of aroused taxpayers as well as that of thousands of welfare recipients whose hardships could be intensified.

One bright spot for Walker could be the Department of Children and Family Services, which has been embroiled in a number of controversies ranging from abortion to child abuse.

However, there is a general impression that the new director, Mary Lee Leahy, who took over about a year ago, has restored a significant measure of calm and order to the department. There are fewer complaints and fewer protesting delegations.

The pageant will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Civic Plaza Symphony Hall, Phoenix, Ariz.

There will be choral speaking, a praisers' band, choir, puppets, parade, pantomime, all-star children's orchestra, U.S. Army chaplain representing early chaplains and a guest speaker, Congressman John Conlan.

All Indian tribes' grade schools and various Christian grade schools and 10 Evangelical Christian churches will portray Arizona's Christian heritage.

Mrs. Lichtenberg is the recipient of an official proclamation from Governor Raul Castro "urging all citizens to take this opportunity to intensify their unity through individual and group involvement and to remind themselves of their God-given heritage and privilege of living in this great country, and proclaiming the month of November as "Arizona's Heritage Blessed by God" pageant month.

Mrs. Lichtenberg also has written the legend for the pageant's Bicentennial souvenir coloring book.

The book is being sold to promote interest in God and Country and in the pageant she is directing.

Larry Lichtenberg, her husband, has illustrated some of the pictures. Their daughter, Julia Isabel Dameron Lichtenberg, an eighth grade student, helped with the Scripture selections and will also be one of the pianists for the pageant, accompanying the praisers' band and all-star children's orchestra.

The entire Lichtenberg family has appeared on television and radio promoting the pageant.

Mrs. Lichtenberg's sister, Mrs. Richard Schwendemann, is a resident of Granite City.

Mrs. Lichtenberg is choir director at one of the sponsoring churches and works as a public school speech and language pathologist.

Theme of the pageant is II Chronicles 7:14.

"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin and will heal their land."

Mrs. Lichtenberg is also co-director of "The Young Heritage Praisers," children representing the participating groups who have been PET CENTER GOING UP: Youths from Boys Town of Missouri at St. James, Mo., position a wall section, part of a small redwood cabin to be used for monthly pet adoptions by the Quad-City Association for Protection of Animals (APA). The youths constructed the building with materials provided by the local APA group and then erected the cabin between the front entrance to Gasen Drugs and The Fabric Store, in Nameoki Village Shopping Center. The volunteer work detail was supervised by William Handy, Boys Town director, and Vernon Salter, building supervisor at the school.

Fried chicken outlet to renew Yule aid plan

The Kentucky Fried Chicken store at 1510 Johnson Road is one of the 59 Kentucky Fried Chicken stores throughout the metropolitan area that will cooperate, for the fourth consecutive year with the Salvation Army in an area-wide program to collect and distribute canned goods for the needy.

In announcing the program, Salvation Army Major Leon Turner noted that the kick-off date this year will be Thanksgiving, Thursday, Nov. 27. The program works as follows: Anyone bringing one or more cans of food to a Kentucky Fried Chicken store during the campaign will receive a full dollar off the regular purchase price of a bucket or barrel of Kentucky Fried Chicken. The campaign ends on Sunday, Dec. 21.

Major Turner commented:

"This annual program provides us with a ready source of food, not only for distribution during the Christmas season, but also for our on-going programs and unexpected emergencies. Of course, non-perishable canned foods are the easiest for us to handle and distribute."

During the first three campaigns, 91,000 cans of food were collected and distributed.

This Congressional district chosen for U. S. coal conversion project

(Press-Record)
Washington Bureau)
New Athens was selected Monday as the site for a $237 million demonstration plant to convert coal to clean-burning fuel.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans, administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration, said after notifying Illinoisans in Congress.

Coalcon Company of New York is the prime contractor for the project to demonstrate the commercial feasibility of converting high-sulfur coal into clean-burning liquid and gaseous fuels on a large scale.

New Athens, recommended by Gov. Daniel Walker, won out against 16 competing sites recommended by the governors of six Eastern coal-producing states.

Walker praised the Illinois congressional delegation for help in bringing the project to Illinois.

"The selection of New Athens as the site of the Coalcon project will develop the coal industry in Illinois and provide a new energy source for the nation," he said.

Seamans, in announcing the selection, said it was difficult. "However," he added, "the Illinois site was the clear-cut winner under the criteria that had been established."

"After receiving all the information on the sites in light of the criteria, I believe this site provides the best balance between project needs and acceptable environmental and socio-economic impact."

Seamans called the New Athens demonstration plant a "first, important step" in meeting the "engineering and economic challenge of developing a viable synthetic fuels industry" for the critical shortage expected in the 1990s.

The New Athens site is in Southwestern Illinois near that town on the Kaskaskia River in St. Clair County.

Seamans pointed out that much of the 2,000-acre site has already been stripmined by Peabody Coal Co. and is not in use. Abundant coal is readily available on or near the site.

He said there appears to be a minimum of zoning, land use and environmental obstacles, and the potential for future expansion is excellent.

Rep. Mel Price, D-East St. Louis, in whose district the New Athens site is situated, said its selection "reflects the key role of Illinois in developing fossil fuel" and represents a lot of work in winning the ERDA recommendation.

According to U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., the demonstration project will employ 1,000 construction workers and 260 operating personnel.

If the plant is successful, Coalcon will develop a commercial plant which would account for 700 more jobs.

"Illinois has been committed to the advancement of the fossil fuel demonstration program and the development of our vast coal resources," Percy said.

"Illinois adopted a $700 million bond issue for the sole purpose of developing this valuable reserve. We are certainly emerging as the most aggressive state in the area of energy development," he said.

Coalcon got the ERDA contract last January and formed a consortium to undertake the project.

Coalcon is a joint venture by Union Carbide Corp. and Chemico, a subsidiary of General Tire and Rubber Company's Aerojet-General Corp.

Construction is expected to begin in 1977 and be completed in 1980.

Coalcon will operate the plant for 42 months to evaluate the efficiency of design and the marketability of the products.

The New Athens plant is expected to use 2,600 tons of high-sulfur coal a day to produce 3,900 barrels of liquid fuels for boilers and 22 million cubic feet of synthetic natural gas.

Coalcon, in its report, called the New Athens site "excellent."

ERDA got Coalcon's recommendations, plus a separate independent study of the 16 recommended sites, on Nov. 11.

"While I know that other states may be disappointed in not receiving the plant," Seamans said, "we believe it will be the first of many demonstration and commercial synthetic fuel plants which will be built in coal producing regions over the next two decades."

ERDA, in its site selection report, noted that Illinois has offered a $25 million grant with the understanding that part of revenues from the New Athens plant would accrue to the state.

Current projections show that $10 million could be returned to Illinois through this means, the report said. This would mean the net grant could be as low as $15 million.

alleged a taxicab driver had become arrogant toward her when she refused to allow him to pick up additional passengers while she was in the taxicab.

The woman also has called for the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce to investigate taxicab operations in the city.

Veizer to check cab procedures

The Granite City Council Monday night asked Chief of Police Ronald Veizer to investigate whether taxicabs in Granite City are violating provisions of the city ordinances regulating them.

The council heard a written complaint from a woman who reported, noted that Illinois has offered a $25 million grant with the understanding that part of revenues from the New Athens plant would accrue to the state.

Current projections show that $10 million could be returned to Illinois through this means, the report said. This would mean the net grant could be as low as $15 million.

Freeman D. "Dave" Richards, operator of Dave's Taxi Service, 1555 State St., said taxicabs here always have attempted to pick up several customers on a given run around the city, thus saving each rider much waiting time

Cooperation by nursing home, students is helping patients

Floyd Fisher, administrator of the Madison County Nursing Home, says he'll stick his operation and staff against the best, and he credits much of the home's success to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"We can do more for our patients because we can draw on resources from SIUE," Fisher says. "Ideas for some of our policies came from SIUE. It is easier to find qualified help because of the University's proximity. Recently, for example, we hired an August 1975 graduate, Lois Meinert, as social rehabilitation director."

Through SIUE's Speech and Hearing Clinic, residents at the home with speech and hearing difficulties are given help they might not otherwise receive.

Periodically, the SIUE School of Nursing holds rehabilitation seminars open to members of the nursing home staff. Ina Ingwersen, director of continuing education at the School of Nursing, says it takes more than theory to become a nurse.

"It takes practice, too, and the Madison County Nursing Home cooperates in these workshops by providing its facilities."

"Mr. Fisher has an open-door policy," Mrs. Ingwersen added. "Shirley Miller, director of nurses, is right on the job and knows all the patients. We are fortunate in this area to have good nursing homes—not the stereotyped ones under fire today."

Physical therapy is one of the essentials in keeping patients in a good frame of mind, according to Fisher. "Here again, we can thank SIUE. Wilfred (Bud) Buddell, a member of SIUE's Health, Recreation and Physical Education faculty, is a consultant in our therapy program. He has done wonders for us."

Students from SIUE make good employees, the nursing home administrator says. Currently there are six serving as nurse aides. Coni Ryan, a freshman who plans to become a nurse, has been around hospitals all of her life. An "Air Force Brat" born in San Bernardino, Calif., she is the daughter of a laboratory technologist at a St. Louis hospital and central supply technician at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Granite City. Coni was a candy stripper at St. Elizabeth during her Edwardsville High School days.

"A thank you from a patient compensates for the times I want to hit the wall or scream," Coni said. "I get so attached to all the residents and miss them when they leave. If one passes away, it hurts."

Floors at the nursing home are generally segregated according to patient needs, and Laura Duncan, another SIUE nurse aide, prefers the one where the need is greatest. Born in New York of Canadian parentage, Laura says nurse aides are with the patients more than anyone else. "When they are sick or their families are far away, we try to substitute. We don't always have as much time as we'd like for individual attention—seems all we do some days is take them (residents) to the bathroom or clean up a mess—but we leave the home with a feeling of satisfaction."

Pat Wisniewski, who came from DuQuoin to SIUE because of its nursing school, relates the patients to her "grandma and grandpa." In describing ing some of the duties of the aides, she includes making nails, keeping hair brushed and groomed between visits to the home's beauty shop, helping residents with ambulatory problems into the dining room or rest rooms, delivering between-meal snacks—"and just visiting with patients. Mr. Fisher considers social contact with the residents one of the most important aspects of a good nursing home."

"It's more than a job at the Madison County Nursing Home," another SIUE student aide said in summing up how she feels. "It's a labor of love—from the administrator and the director of nursing to the aide."

PRISON INDUSTRY Menard inmates pack cigarettes

SPRINGFIELD — There's a new cigarette on the market in certain limited areas of Illinois. In a white pack with red printing depicting a pyramid, some palm trees and the brand name, they are called "Pyramids."

A 20-cigarette pack costs 18½ cents. To some people, they don't even cost that much — they're free. Needless to say, business is booming. There is a hitch, of course.

To get them free, you have to be an inmate at the Menard correctional center (prison) in Chester. Even to get them for 18½ cents, you have to be a resident of a state facility such as a mental hospital or prison or otherwise qualify as a non-profit organization or tax-supported agency or institution. Tobacco making at Menard is an old and well-established prison industry. But until recently, the product turned out was shredded and granulated tobacco, for rolling your own cigarettes, or chewing tobacco. These still are being produced. Noting the location of Menard in southern Illinois, traditionally known as "Little Egypt," the prison tobacco originally were brand-named "Egyptian Princess." From that to "Pyramids" for the already-rolled cigarettes was a short, easy and obvious leap. Once the individual cigarettes are produced, they are packaged, wrapped in cellophane and packed in cartons for delivery, at a price of $36.65, plus shipping charges, for a case of 198 packs. The new product is reportedly doing so well the staff of 13 residents working in the tobacco shop is having a hard time keeping up with incoming orders. The men working in the shop are paid for their work and are receiving vocational training which may help them to get work once they are released. The wage isn't exactly staggering — 15 cents per case for every case that's sold (not produced, mind you sold).

Even so, they have been averaging about $30 a month, and the foreman of the tobacco shop says he anticipates a potential of $70 a month for each resident working in the shop if sales continue to increase at the expected rate. The tobacco industry in Menard is the only one of its kind in Illinois, though a number of other correctional centers have various industrial programs.

BOATS, FISHING

Sangchris Park in two counties

Editor's Note: This is one of a series on Illinois' state parks and memorials.

By JOAN MURARO
SPRINGFIELD — One of the more recent additions to the Illinois Conservation Department's state park system is Sangchris State Park, about 15 miles southwest of Springfield, near Kincaid.

The park, which takes its name from the fact it lies in both Sangamon and Christian counties, was created in 1969 when Commonwealth Edison Co. turned over to the state, specifically for recreational purposes, three tracts of land with a total of 1,414 acres, along with easement rights for boating and fishing on the 2,700-acre lake.

The lake was installed by the firm as a cooling pond for the Commonwealth Edison electric generating plant begun there in 1964. Clear Creek, a three-fingered stream which previously flowed into the south fork of the Sangamon River, was dammed to create it. Water drawn from the lake into the plant is about 15 degrees warmer when it is returned to the lake to cool by natural evaporation. It takes about three days for the water to make a five-mile loop before returning and repeating the cycle.

Surrounding the lake are specimens of nearly all trees native to the area. Many already were present and thousands more have been planted in a reforestation project which has been under way for several years.

Scouts, school groups, sportsmen's clubs, and others have contributed trees in the project, including hawthorn, butternut, persimmon, white, red and pin oak, red maple, ash and alder. On a two-mile, semi-isolated triangular peninsula between the middle and western branches of the lake, a waterfowl plot is maintained, forming a regular rest stop and winter haven for migrating geese and ducks. The lake never is completely frozen over and as a result there may be as many as 5,000 Canadian geese and 10,000 to 15,000 wild ducks seen on occasion there. In addition, wintertime park visitors may see an occasional eagle or even a mute swan.

The park offers eight picnic areas scattered around the lake, with two large shelters and nine small ones. There are charcoal grills and pit toilets. A service building which houses the ranger's office is located at the campground entrance, where water is available. Self-interpreting nature trails wind through three miles of the park, with abundant wildflowers and songbirds along the way. Gravel pads for tent or trailer campers are located at the north end of the lake, with electricity and a sanitary dumping station available. There is a separate group camping area in the hilly region near the service building. Groups of more than 25 persons, as in all Illinois state parks, must have advance permission to enter the park and campers must obtain a permit at the camp registration building before entering the campground. Boaters will find two slip launching ramps and docks both on the lake's east and west sides, with motors of 10 horsepower or less permitted. Sailboats are prohibited. The lake has 120 miles of shoreline and an average depth of 16 feet, though there are some drop-offs up to 40 feet deep. The area in 1972 was designated a state fish preserve, so use of trotlines, jug-fishing or other commercial fishing devices are forbidden. There is good fishing for the sport fisherman for largemouth bass, bluegill, crappie, channel and flathead catfish, bullhead and carp.

Teachers workshop

Approximately 400 games and activity projects made by teachers were displayed at a workshop for elementary teachers conducted at Granite City High School South by Mrs. Inez Hooper of Belleville and Mrs. Jody Grier of Marine, Ill.

The workshop, entitled "Make It and Take It" was designed to instruct teachers of making games and activities for educational purposes. All academic areas were discussed and activities were displayed to be used in each area. Some teachers made specific games during the workshop, while others used their time to copy ideas.

CONSUMER CUES

Coupons making cents

By BARR MAYER

While the American housewife is busy pushing her shopping cart through the local supermarket, research firms are busy trying to pin down her attitudes on food prices, promotions and even coupon clipping. The results of two surveys point out some interesting trends in food buying habits. A consumer survey entitled "Super Market Trends" concludes that "people have become accustomed to inflation" because fewer shoppers list high food prices as a major personal concern.

The survey, conducted by the Food Distribution Information Council of Super Market Institute, compared shopper attitudes this past summer with attitudes last winter.

In last winter's survey, 76 per cent of shoppers interviewed in a statistically selected sample across the country listed high food prices as a major concern. In the summer survey, the figure fell to 67 per cent.

The survey showed that as the rate of inflation in food prices has slowed down, consumers have eased up on some spending controls instituted to cope with rising prices.

Such controls include buying cheaper cuts of meat, buying fewer convenience foods, buying store or lower priced brands and serving less at meals.

Researchers interpreted the survey results to mean that consumers do not expect economic problems to get much worse, concluding that "there is a bottoming out."

However, the survey also gave indications that some inflation-fighting techniques are here to stay. The study showed no decline in the number of consumers who use price-off coupons, stock up on bargains, do more meal planning and almost always clip coupons in newspapers.

Another survey, this one by the Consumer Gazette, a national bimonthly magazine, bore out the popularity of coupons.

The Consumer Gazette survey found that 77 per cent of the 3,500 respondents are using more cents-off coupons today than a year ago. And 57 per cent expect to use an even greater number of coupons in the future.

Over half the respondents said they shop for groceries once a week and the majority redeem from one to five coupons each time. Ninety-one per cent of those responding said they consistently checked supermarket ads appearing in local newspapers for price specials and coupons.

While we're on the subject of coupons, have you ever wondered why, when you use cents-off coupon, you pay sales tax on the regular price of the item? None of the respondents are using more cents-off coupons today than a year ago. And 57 per cent expect to use an even greater number of coupons in the future. Some shoppers were curious about this, and called a State's Attorney's office to find out if the practice is legal.

An assistant state attorney referred them to Rule 46 of the Illinois Retailers Occupation Tax Rules. The rule provides that when merchandise is paid for in cash and trading stamps or coupons, the tax must be based on the total price, including the cash value of the coupon.

To act on building variances

Granite City Appeals Board recommendations on variances from side property lines requested in three cases were confirmed by the City Council in a regular meeting Monday night.

The appeals board received a petition from area residents objecting to the request because they believe the lots are too small and the new homes would be too close to existing homes for privacy.

The board found there would be only seven feet between an existing home and a new home and only 13 feet between homes on the other side of the two lots.

The request was submitted by the New You Company, Inc., represented at the hearing by John Sobol. It is seeking a variance of five feet from the side property lines for the houses and for a 10-foot attached garage to the side of each.

The appeals board endorsed requests for two variances. It recommended a variance for Ray Hancock, 3009 National Ave., to construct a garage two feet from the side property line. The board recommended it be granted with the stipulation that it be constructed at the rear of the lot, two feet from the side property line.

Also endorsed was a request from Ralph Coltrane, 3041 Willow Ave., for a variance to construct an attached garage four feet from the side property line. There were no objectors.

Yule craft fair at SIUE

A Christmas Craft Fair, Dec. 2-4 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will be a showcase of original handmade gifts at reasonable prices, according to Pat Sweeney, coordinator of the SIUE Craft Shop.

In the University Center, Christmas shoppers may choose from such crafts as weaving, painting, leatherwork, jewelry, pottery and wood carving. "Pottery, candles and jewelry will be particularly successful in last year's fair," said Mrs. Sweeney. Craftspeople will be present from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day to display and discuss their work. A few may also demonstrate the making of their craft, she added.

Most of the participants are non-students from the St. Louis area, whose lives are to a great extent devoted to their crafts. Mrs. Sweeney stated. Among SIUE students who will be taking part are members of the Wagner Pottery Association, who plan to use their profit to buy art equipment and bring guest artists to the University, said Mrs. Sweeney.

Craftspeople interested in selling their work at the fair may submit slides, photographs or three samples of the craft to Mrs. Sweeney at the SIUE Craft Shop for acceptance.

Tourney opens mat season

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling team opened its 1975-76 season with an impressive showing in the Great Plains Tournament in Lincoln, Neb., during the weekend. The Cougars came away with seven place winners, including one weight-class championship.

If SIUE had been entered as a team, the Cougars would have finished second with 67 points. But the meet was sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union and SIUE is not registered as an AAU school. The meet's team championship went to the Hawkeye Wrestling Club of Iowa.

Jerry Washington won SIUE's only weight-class championship. He pinned Fred Spula of Wayne State University in the 215-pound championship after a minute and 53 seconds had elapsed. Along the way, Washington pinned Tom Hazell, who two years ago finished second in the nation as a 150-pounder for Oklahoma State University.

Washington is a junior but will be "red-shirted" during the 1975-76 regular season. As a freshman, Washington placed second in the NCAA Division II Championships at 190 pounds. He is a native of Harvey, Ill.

SIUE's other place winners were: sophomore Jim Reizer (Caseville), third, and freshman Keith Halbert (East Chicago Heights), fourth at 115 pounds; freshman Jim Cizek (Oak Lawn), fourth at 118; sophomore Terry Mulrenin (Oak Lawn), third at 134; freshman Dru Meshe (Deerfield), fourth at 150; and senior Dennis Byrne (Des Plaines), fourth at 167.

A Cougar alumnus also did well in Lincoln. Three-time All-American Mike Taylor turned in a second-place performance at 158 pounds, losing in the finals to Wade Shalles by a 7-2 score.

Two other SIUE wrestlers also entered but failed to place. Sophomore Kevin White of St. Louis lost on a decision in the early rounds at 118 pounds. Granite City freshman Steve Garland was eliminated at 126 pounds when he was pinned by Tyrone Johnson of the University of Nebraska-Omaha at 5:02. Ron Martin of Granite City also is a Cougar mat freshman.

GC school delegates to back funding measures

A resolution by the Illinois Association of School Boards calling upon Gov. Dan Walker to provide supplemental appropriations necessary to fully implement 1976 school funding will be supported by delegates of the Granite City Board of Education at the association's delegate assembly to be held in Chicago Saturday.

In a regular meeting Tuesday night, the Board of Education named Tom Miotzky, a board member, as a delegate to the Chicago meeting. Other delegates are George Moore and Donald Shucke, both board members.

Other resolutions that the local delegates will support include one in which the state association calls for legislation that would give school districts and municipalities the right to appear before tax assessors or tax appeals boards to object to and present evidence of inequities in the assessment of property in the school district. Board members noted that at present school districts have no legal standing to seek redress when they believe tax assessments in their district are inequitable.

They also agreed to support state actions which encourage legislation providing that placement of candidates on the election ballot for school board membership shall be determined by three requirements. Other issues approved include:

Schools to honor athletes Nov. 25

The two Granite City high schools will hold season-ending sports banquets to honor fall athletes on Tuesday, Nov. 25. GCHS North will present awards and letters to its St. Peter's football team in the school cafeteria, beginning at 6:30 p.m. and GCHS South will honor its football, soccer, cross-country and golf teams at that school's cafeteria, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

Don Deterding, North's athletic coordinator, notes that tickets, at a cost of $2 per person, are available by contacting him at 931-0600, now through Monday, during normal school hours.

Reger Smith, South's athletic coordinator, reports that the Warrior four-sport banquet will not be open to the public at that advance tickets are not available.

Rules ready at park

The Granite City Park District is asking representatives of its 1975-76 basketball leagues to obtain season schedules and rules at the park district's Wilson Park office tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

ADDRESS IN ERROR

Noah Ezra Tidwell, 26, who was charged with unlawful delivery of cannabis after being arrested Monday, does not reside at 1714 Grand Ave. residents there notified officials. Authorities said Tidwell is believed to have an address in the 1200 block of 19th Street.

Providing cash fund loans working that local school districts with an established working cash fund made money from that fund to the bond and interest fund, as well as the educational fund and operation, building maintenance funds, along with constitutional revisions that will enable and require the state and federal governments to implement forward funding programs of schools, providing sound financial data for the efficient and effective management of school districts.

Publication of legal notices, the IASB shall initiate and support legislation that would provide consistent regulations governing publication of public notices required of boards of education in Illinois.

Legislative Activities — "shall actively encourage and assist school board members to effectively evaluate positions of legislative candidates relative to public education and to support those candidates who have demonstrated an understanding and support for the needs of public school students in Illinois."

Insurance Premiums — "the feasibility of IASB providing the establishment of cooperative insurance purchasing programs — with a substantial savings in premium costs."

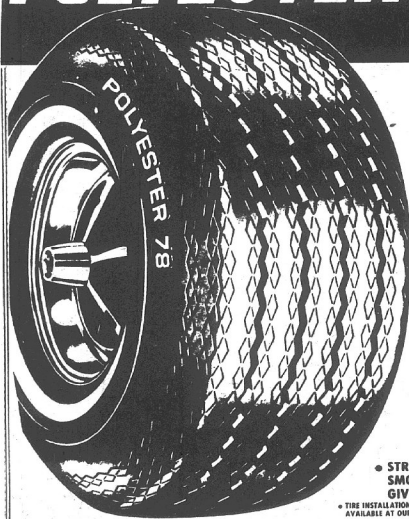

State Aid Payments — "the IASB shall encourage the Illinois state legislature to pass legislation whereby state aid payments would be forwarded to all school districts directly from the state treasurer on the first of each month."

The final proposition to be supported by the local board was the school district decision: "shall take all appropriate action to encourage members of the Illinois general assembly to refrain from introducing legislation which deprives local school districts of decision-making powers on matters in which there is not a clear and compelling statewide interest involved."

A list of school board workshops and meetings to take place beginning this weekend and continued through Aug. 27, at various cities in the country, was presented at the meeting. Easements along the proposed extension of Marvill Road to Lake School, and plans to erect a six-foot, chain link fence along the property was discussed. The members also reviewed plans to possibly put sidewalks at the back of the property. Further action on the project will be made after the committee meets with the city officials.

CANCEROUS?

Leaf burning ban reviewed

By SUSAN SACHS

SPRINGFIELD — That sweet-smelling smoke wafting up from piles of burning leaves this fall contains something that may surprise you — seven separate cancer-causing chemicals.

A study commissioned by the Illinois Institute of Environmental Quality offers the first scientific evidence leaf-burning may be hazardous to health.

The report by Battelle Laboratories in Ohio in what the state Pollution Control Board was waiting for to re-open its hearings on a leaf-burning ban, said chairman

Jacob Dumelle.

A PCB ban on leaf burning several years ago turned out to be one of the most emotional political issues about the environment, causing Springfield residents and people all over the state to take up arms to save the autumn tradition.

The attorney general in 1973 issued an opinion that suspended the PCB ban but said the Board could reenact a new one when there's proof leaf burning is a health hazard. The Environmental Protection Act of 1970 prohibits open burning.

That's when Battelle was hired to analyze the smoke from Illinois leaves. It found seven cancer-causing chemicals, four of them classified by the National Academy of Science as strong carcinogens and three chemicals "known to be" carcinogens.

The research group burned red oak leaves, sugar maple leaves, sycamore leaves, and a mixture of the leaves. They then analyzed the emissions given off from the samples.

Dumelle said the study doesn't prove smoke from leaf burning is a health hazard but it provides the basis for testimony from medical experts.

When the PCB begins its hearings, probably sometime in mid-December, it will hear not only medical testimony but testimony about the economics of a leaf-burning ban.

The first ban affected all Illinois cities with a population greater than 1,000. It later was amended to affect towns with 2,500 people or more.

In 1973, one of a number of bills seeking to preserve leaf burning was signed, which prohibited the Board from adopting a ban until it proves a health hazard.

The Board then asked for an attorney general's opinion to clarify the bill.

Peoria, Chicago and a number of Chicago suburbs have banned open leaf burning.

Births, deaths down in county

Births and deaths in Madison County during October decreased below those of the same month in 1974, but the number of marriages showed a substantial increase, according to a vital statistics report by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles at Edwardsville.

A total of 288 births—162 boys and 126 girls—was reported last month, compared to 222 births—174 boys and 148 girls—in October 1974. The report showed. There were four sets of twins born last month, compared with seven in October 1974.

One hundred thirty-three deaths were reported in the county during October this year, down from 160 in the same month a year ago.

Marriages, however, totaled 236 last month, up from 209 in the same month in 1974.

chairman, and Miss Irene Hackett, Local 985 president, were members of the teachers' negotiating team. Board members John Boushara, Bill Fechte and Charles Burger and Supt. Vickers' represented the Venice board.

Agreement between the Venice teachers and board of education over the previous contract came only after a four-week strike by Local 985, which concluded May 19, 1974, following an intensive period of court-ordered negotiations.

Venice faculty members had worked for a one-year period without a contract up to the point of the strike. The 1974-75 pact contained a 6.5 per cent salary increase and a $200 lump sum payment.

In other action, board members discussed seeking a school tax increase with a referendum possibly in mid-December. A firm decision on the proposed tax referendum will be made at the board's next meeting.

Venice voters rejected election proposals to increase the educational fund tax rate limit in four consecutive referendums; the last one held Oct. 25, 1974. The final proposal, defeated by a 68-vote margin, sought to increase the rate ceiling by 50 cents from $2.05 to $2.55 per $100 assessed valuation.

Serious financial problems have beset the Venice School District for the past several years. Reduced tax revenue resulting from lower property values within the district, higher teachers salaries and spiraling operating costs have been cited.

The board agreed to charge a $150 adult admission fee to Venice basketball games, a raise of 50 cents, while leaving the student admission price at 50 cents.

They also hired Ronald Brawley as custodian, effective Dec. 1, to replace Richard Maher who resigned earlier this year. Brawley, a Venice High School graduate, has been

Schulze pledges 'crackdown' on railroads to repair crossings

A plan to "crack down" on railroads using Granite City grade crossings to accomplish repair of a number of crossings now in "deplorable condition" was promulgated Monday night by Mayor Paul Schulze.

The mayor told City Council members that he plans to enforce a city ordinance which requires that all railroad tracks located at grade crossings be installed at the same level as the streets.

"We just haven't been getting the cooperation we should in keeping the grade crossings in good condition," the mayor said, adding that some of the railroads usually "ignore" requests by city officials that crossings be kept in better condition.

"There is a city ordinance that requires all rails to be at the same grade as the streets. I intend to use this ordinance to get something done," Schulze said.

"I don't know why it is, but each time the railroads do any work at all on the crossings, it seems as if they raise the grade of the tracks a little more," the mayor said. He noted that the grade of the tracks contribute considerably to the rough condition of many of the city's grade crossings.

The mayor said he has met with City Attorney George Filcoff on the matter and that letters to officials of six major rail lines notifying them that tracks must be lowered to street level are now being prepared. He said the notices will be sent to officials of Illinois Central Gulf, Penn Central, Illinois Terminal Railroad, Norfolk & Western and Amtrak.

The condition of railroad crossings in Granite City are a continuous problem to City Council members who receive complaints from motorists about poor crossing repair.

In a related action, the Commerce Commission have visited here with area legislators to inspect the crossings on several occasions. Schulze said the city has not benefited to any great extent from these activities.

Engineers of the Illinois Commerce Commission have visited here with area legislators to inspect the crossings on several occasions. Schulze said the city has not benefited to any great extent from these activities.

In a related action, the council was notified Monday night by the Illinois Department of Transportation that it has approved plans of the Norfolk & Western Railroad for revision of mechanisms operating the railroad gates on the W. Pontoon Road crossing.

The ICC has ordered Norfolk & Western, Penn Central, Illinois Gulf Central and Amtrak to revise their circuit systems for operation of the crossing gates as a result of protests by area residents and Quad-City motorists that crossing gates often are lowered for long periods, causing motorists to drive around the lowered gates. Two persons were killed during the past year while driving around the gates.

Granite City was ordered to raise the level of the west street approach to the crossing at its own expense, while the state allowed funds to the railroads to revise their operating systems. As a result, the city has authorized City Attorney George Filcoff to appeal the ICC ruling to the Circuit Court.

In his statement on enrollments, Davis noted that student enrollment at the beginning of the fall term totaled 15,000, and by the end of October had dropped to 13,091. The decrease is not concentrated at a specific grade

Salaries hiked for GC school administrators

An increase in salaries of 44 administrative employees, supervisors and consultants in the Granite City School District, at an overall cost of $7,875,000, retroactive to July 1 this year, was approved by the Board of Education at a meeting Tuesday night.

In addition to the raises, it was recommended that an additional $10,000 term life insurance policy be underwritten by the district for the administrative staff. It also was noted the cost of living factor decreased by $50 from last year.

The salary increase recommendation included a report that one administrative type position (assistant vocational education) has been phased out and another position (director of buildings and grounds) is being shared by the administrative assistant for business affairs and the supervisor of maintenance, thus compensating for part of the cost of the salary increases in the present budget.

The board members authorized the Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. accounting firm to prepare a study on internal controls and submit the results to a committee headed by L. Monroe Worthen, board member, for consideration prior to presentation to the board.

Appointed to serve with Worthen was Tom Miodsky, Harold Davis, Tully Heubner and Superintendent B. J. Davis.

Concern over declining enrollments was discussed at length with a recommendation by Supt. Davis that the board charge the Citizens Advisory Council to form a task force to study the problems and opportunities the issue pose, and to make a full report to the board by May 1, in submitting the target date, Davis said it would allow some implementation time for any action recommended for the following school year.

In his statement on enrollments, Davis noted that student enrollment at the beginning of the fall term totaled 15,000, and by the end of October had dropped to 13,091. The decrease is not concentrated at a specific grade level but covers the entire student registration.

He added that the decline is believed to be caused primarily by job unemployment, which induces families to move to other locations to work.

Supt. Davis submitted a five-point recommendation for study by the task force in the area of projected enrollments, financing, building usage, staffing and programs, and is to provide a five to 10-year, long-range projection.

In other board action in relation to school personnel, the members appointed Paul Greve, a Grigby Junior High School teacher, to an extracurricular assignment at Coolidge Junior High School for the remainder of the year.

A grievance filed by Myra Grote, through the Fair Employment Practices Commission, charging sex discrimination on the job, was referred to the school attorney by board action.

Mrs. Grote charges she is being discriminated against in the area of equal pay for equal work because of her sex. She is a matron and claims that she is doing equal work to a custodian and receiving less pay, according to a written statement submitted to the board.

A proposal to resolve a new working agreement with secretaries, custodians and cafeteria of Union Local 98 in the Granite City School District was rejected unanimously by the union members at a meeting Monday night, according to Don Murphy, spokesman for the group.

No further meetings have been arranged at the present time, he added.

Escapee surrenders

Kevin Campbell, 19, of 161 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, who escaped from officers behind the Venice City hall during the weekend surrendered voluntarily to the Madison County Sheriff's Department Wednesday morning in Edwardsville.

Venice police obtained a warrant charging him with escape in addition to other charges that led to his initial arrest.

He had been arrested at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on warrants alleging armed violence, reckless conduct, unlawful use of a weapon and attempted murder in connection with an Oct. 31 incident in which shots were fired into the North Venice Grill, 1100 Calhoun St., and a police car responding to the grill shooting.

Police checking Campbell's cell for a visit by his mother reported finding him curled up and appearing unconscious.

They took Campbell and his mother in a squad car toward a hospital. Officers reported Campbell said he regained consciousness and felt better, so they returned him to Venice, City Hall.

When they were letting him out of the squad car, they alleged he broke free and ran. He was chased on foot behind the Venice Recreation Center, through Lee Park and under the new railroad underpass, and was believed to have jumped on a southbound train headed toward Brooklyn.

Officers then obtained the warrant alleging escape.

Driver hurt

Robby Leek, 40, of 2207 E. 20th St., was injured when his southbound car struck a parked car in the 2500 block of Edwards St., at 6:05 p.m. Monday.

Police reported the car struck a parked truck owned by Jim Pagan, 2535 E. 20th St., pushing it forward into a two-wheeled concrete mixer unit.

The concrete mixer then was pushed forward into another pickup truck owned by Pagan. Leek was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital with abrasions to his forehead and possible head injuries. At his request, he was transferred to John Cochran Veterans' Hospital, St. Louis.

Ralph O'Connor dies at 55

Ralph F. O'Connor, 55, of 2312 O'Hare Ave., a lifelong resident of Granite City, died at 7:06 p.m. Tuesday at the Veterans Hospital, Kansas City, Mo. He had been ill one week and hospitalized three days.

Mr. O'Connor was born in Bloomington, Ill. He retired in 1963 at Carter Carburetor where he had been employed as a machine operator.

He was an Army veteran of World War II. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Harold (Opal) Hill of Granite City, and a brother, Robert O'Connor of Berkeley, Ill. Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Soccer rivaling football, ice hockey in emotional impact on fans, players

American sports fans will not take a back seat to any nationality in their love for highly charged emotion in their games, it is said. Foremost is football and then, perhaps, ice hockey... until the past 10 or more years with the rapid development of soccer on all levels of competition.

Most U.S. sports fans were dimly aware of the red hot and frenetic interest of international soccer fans, in Europe, South America and even Mexico.

So rapid is the interest that the outcomes of games have triggered war between two South American nations and forced some promoters and stadium owners to protect the players by installing deep, water-filled moats between the bleacher seats and the players and officials on the field, or by erecting electrified fences.

Americans now are finding that soccer is an emotional sport and are beginning to understand why many international fans go berserk about the games.

Ice hockey and football fans are volatile and noisy, but the players of these two sports are more apt to let their emotions explode into fistfights.

Gaining fast on these two is American soccer, and its effect on both the players and the fans.

This fall's game between Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee soccer teams, won by SIUE 7-0, saw both benches erupt into violent action when the invaders' star and leading scorer, Rick Bobosa, traded punches with the Cougars' Gene Mihalow.

Bobosa's futility and anger grew from the fact that he and his teammates had come to SIUE with a better worst record (10-3-0) than the Cougars and had a chance to win a berth in the post-season Midwest regional tournament if they could only beat SIUE. The charged-up Milwaukee players found themselves badly beaten and down 5-0 at the half, and it was obvious that the visitors and their large contingent of fans were becoming exceedingly annoyed and frustrated.

When SIUE goalkeeper Len Toedebusch stopped a one-on-one power crash by Bobosa, the latter apparently had had enough. He took a kick at the Cougars' goalie, and the fight was on. Players squared off, and blood and teeth began to flow and fly.

Mihalow came to the help of Toedebusch. After some wild swings, the officials attempted to—and seemed about to—separate these fighting.

Then, the audience, led by a Milwaukee fan—it turned out to be Bobosa's brother—ran onto the field and began kicking and punching SIUE's backup goalie Bob Robson, who had inserted himself into the fight card.

After the referees had calmed everyone down, Bobosa was ejected from the game and was taken to a hospital with a broken tooth. SIUE won, ending the visiting team's hopes for a playoff bid.

Last season, a game between the University of Alabama-Huntsville and SIUE had to be called late in the final half when a fight broke out.

These instances, of course, aren't in the same "league" with the cases in Europe and South America where excited crowds have over-packed stands, causing bleachers to collapse, with fans killed and maimed.

Improving its 1974 finish by seven places, the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville cross-country team finished 18th in National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II championships during the weekend.

The Cougars totaled 485 points as the University of California-Irvine won the team title with 59.

Sophomore Layne Law of Bethalto and freshman Dwayne Terry of Granite City led SIUE's individual runners, both covering the five-mile course in under 26 minutes. Law placed 79th with a time of 25:41 while Terry was 88th in 25:47.

Steeler cagers hopeful but most lack past experience on varsity

A 12-year basketball coaching record of 228 wins against 91 losses at Venice High School, including a third-place finish in Class A state cage finals, and a two-year mark of 33 wins against 21 losses at Class AA Granite City High School North, are credentials Coach William Ohlendorf carries with him into his third season as Steeler coach.

In their first year of competition in 1973-74, the Steelers posted a 14-11 record and last season they had a 19-10 mark.

"We like our chances this season," said Ohlendorf. "We aren't going to be a world beater, but after gaining necessary experience with a few ball games, we'll be very respectable," he predicted.

All of last season's starters have graduated and there are only three returning lettermen. Ohlendorf has confidence in the returnees—seniors Rick Spurlock, 6-11, Tom Schocker, 6-4, and Larry Schleicher, 6-0.

"We'll have to call on their experience and try to utilize their strength."

"All three," says the coach, "are capable of scoring in double figures. Naturally, with Spurlock's height, we'll get the ball to him quite a bit. Schocker and Schleicher are capable as outside players."

Last season, Spurlock connected for a season total of 43 field goals in 96 attempts, and his 11 of 27 from the foul line. He pulled down 45 defensive rebounds and 32 rebounds on offense.

Schocker last season made 34 baskets in 103 attempts and shot 10 of 24 from the free throw line. Schleicher was six of 14 on two-pointers and made two of nine foul shots.

The team's only other senior player is Tim Luehman, who is trying out for the first time.

"We also have juniors who are in competition for starting spots. They are talented and we hope the competition will be good for the squad," Ohlendorf relates.

Attempting to nail down a guard position at North is junior Gary Davidson, a 5-10 transfer student from East Prairie, Mo., who is a senior by eligibility. "Davidson shows promise and played with his former school's varsity team while a sophomore," the coach says.

Players from last season's junior varsity squad help round out the varsity team roster.

"They show promise and just need to get their feet underneath them. You can't do that walking the streets. You have to do it on the basketball floor at given times—18 nights a year," he remarked in scanning the 1975-76 schedule.

The Steelers lost two members of the 1974-75 team—Chris Page to a football knee injury and James Woodward to the Collinsville Kahoks.

With a tough schedule facing the Steelers this season, Ohlendorf and Assistant Coaches Bob Page, Jack Parker and Tom Wyrostek feel that North High will have to be at a peak for all its opponents, starting with Belleville East in the season opener Nov. 28.

"Belleville East, Alton, Collinsville and Edwardsville all throw shooting clubs as felt we could have been."

"But that's past. What we work on now is how we are going to be this season."

Banquet to honor Steeler kickers

Granite City High School North will honor its 1975 Steeler soccer team at a sports awards banquet tonight at the school's cafeteria, beginning at 6:30.

Don Deterding, North's athletic coordinator, said the public is invited to attend, and tickets, costing $2 per person may be obtained by contacting him at 931-0600 during school hours.

Coach Bob Kehoe and his assistant, David Ames, guided the North team to a 10-9-3 regular season record, and to a 15-9-3 overall mark.

The Steelers 10 wins were: 6-0 over Alton, 3-1 over Maine East, 4-0 over Peoria Central, 2-0 over Cahokia, 2-0 over Quincy, 1-0 over Assumption, 1-0 over Jacksonville, over Cahokia by forfeit, 3-2 over Jacksonville, and 2-0 over Alton.

Two of North's nine regular season losses came in double overtime periods, both to Quincy by scores of 4-3 and 4-2.

The other seven losses were: 2-1 to Quincy, 1-0 to St. John of St. Louis, 2-0 to Collinsville, 2-0 to Christian Brothers College of St. Louis, 2-0 to Hazelwood Central, and 1-0 to McCluer High of St. Louis.

McCluer was last year's Missouri state champion. The Steelers' tied contests went into overtime periods, 1-1 with St. Paul of Highland, 0-0 with GCHS South, and 0-0 with Collinsville. The Collinsville contest was the final game of the regular season schedule before Illinois High School Association sub-sectional competition began.

North captured its own sub-sectional with a 4-0 victory over St. Paul, and a 2-0 win over Collinsville.

Senior Goalkeeper Rick Demaree was credited with North's nine shutouts of opposing schools, making 126 saves overall. Junior Mike Hill guarded the goal in one contest and saved six balls from entering the net.

'A very good year' predicted for MHS cagers by Graham

Trojan cage mentor Larry Graham, now in his seventh year at Madison High's basketball coach, faces the upcoming 1975-76 season with a repeat of last year's situation—only three returning lettermen and one outside shooter.

"But, we have supporting talent from last season's freshman and sophomore squads," he said, adding and we have height.

Madison's returnees, all one-year lettermen, are: Ron Jones, a 6-3 senior guard and forward; Joe Gulash, a 5-10 senior guard, and Curtis Bradley, a 6-0 senior forward.

Graham's influx from the frosh and soph squads include: Sophomores—Clayton Harris, a 6-1 forward; Anthony King, a 5-6 guard; and Rodney Davis, a 6-1 forward; Juniors—Keith King, a 5-8 guard; Randall Jones, a 6-3 forward and center; Robert Deloach, a 5-11 guard and forward; Dwight Walker, a 5-10 guard; and Ron Williams, a 5-11 guard and forward.

Last season's sophomore squad, coached by Dave Hodges, posted a 15-4 season record. Coach John Paskus's freshman team, last season, had a 13-8 mark.

Graham's varsity squad have a seven-year record of 39 wins against 62 losses, including an 18-4 mark last season.

Adding extra height will be seniors Edwin Garrett and Danny Bankhead.

Garrett, at 6-4, will be contending for a starting forward position. He saw limited action last season with Madison and Coach Graham evaluates his main assets as his defensive plays and ability to drive to the basket.

"If we can get each player to put the team above individualism, we should have a very good year," he concluded.

Potential comptroller candidates discussed

SPRINGFIELD — State Comptroller George Lindberg's decision to run for the Illinois Supreme Court has taken Republican leaders by surprise.

The suddenness of Lindberg's move left GOP leaders without any candidate primed, ready and occupying the inside track to replace Lindberg as the comptroller.

Schisler may run with Gov. Walker

SPRINGFIELD — Rep. Gale Schisler, D-London Mills, is weighing the prospects of becoming a running mate to Gov. Dan Walker or possibly making a bid for state comptroller.

Schisler emphasizes his current plans are undecided but confirmed he has had discussions with aides to Gov. Dan Walker about the possibilities of his running for either lieutenant governor or comptroller.

"We've had a couple of meetings with some of his boys," Schisler said. "It's still in the talking stage; no one has arrived at any conclusions."

The "boys" Schisler said he met with were Victor de Grazia, deputy to the governor, and two Walker legislative liaisons, David Caravello and Ronald Messina.

Schisler said the Walker aides knew he was interested in running for comptroller, as he had been in 1972 when he decided against making the race, and invited him in to talk about the lieutenant governor's spot as well.

It was not a matter of them actually offering the lieutenant governor's berth to him, Schisler indicated.

"We were just talking over the possibilities, the whole spectrum," he said. "If they were to say they wanted me for either office, I'd have to think it over."

Schisler said he expects to talk more about his political future with Walker's aides.

He also said he was uncertain if the Walker people would be running their own slate of candidates for state-wide offices but thought "it would behoove them" to have their own candidates in the field. He reasons the more people they have beating the band for them the better.

Schisler, incidentally, is not without experience in the governor's office. After serving a term in Congress (from 1964 to 1968), he worked as an assistant in 1967 and 1968 to Govs. Otto Kernner and Sam Shapiro. His particular responsibility then was heading the Office of Intergovernmental Cooperation. He has been a Walker ally in the legislature, where he serves as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

New auto on train burns

A 1976 Pinto station wagon on the top of a moving Norfolk & Western Railroad car-carrier caught fire at 12:30 p.m. Monday and Granite City firemen were requested to meet the train at the 22nd Street crossing to extinguish the flames.

Firemen said the car was destroyed. It had a window sticker indicating a value of $4,905. None of the other automobiles on the railroad car was damaged.

The fire was believed to have been started by an electrical short-circuit in the wiring under the dashboard of the car. There were no signs of vandalism and the car was locked, firemen said.

Clothing center needs warm coats for area youth

Warm coats in good condition are urgently needed, especially coats for boys and youths, by the Nearly New Clothing Center, a project of Church Women United of the Quad Cities.

Mrs. Vanetta Leimkuhler, a Church Women United volunteer at the clothing center, said good, used coats for ages 5 to 17 years are being sought for immediate distribution.

"Both girls and boys coats are needed, but those for boys and older youths are in special demand right now," Mrs. Leimkuhler said this week.

Coats may be left at the Coordinated Youth Services office, 1255 Niedringhaus Ave., between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. each weekday.

Lindberg didn't inform State GOP Chairman Don Adams or George Woodcock, president of the Illinois Republican County Chairmen's Association, of his decision until the night before the announcement. At that time, the story already had leaked to the news media that Lindberg's scheduled news conference the next day was called to announce his Supreme Court candidacy.

Lindberg said he reached his decision nine days earlier after learning DuPage County Circuit Judge George W. Unverzagt would not be a candidate for the GOP nomination for the vacancy caused by the retirement of Justice Charles Davis, a Rockford Republican.

Lindberg said he purposely had planned to postpone any announcement until after the state resolved some of its financial problems because he was afraid Gov. Dan Walker's office would suggest he was trying to make political hay with his comments on the fiscal situation. But the story began to leak out and he had to change his plans.

The comptroller said no Republicans have talked to him about replacing him on the ballot and he is not endorsing anybody at this point. At least one Republican, Josephine Oblinger, is interested in the spot.

Mrs. Oblinger, assistant to the president of Lincoln Land Community College and president of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women, said she plans to discuss the situation with Adams before making a decision.

The former Sangamon County clerk also has been mentioned as a possible candidate for secretary of state.

Woodcock said there are a number of possible contenders to be considered. He mentioned Mrs. Oblinger, Sen. James "Pat" Phillips of Elmhurst, a close ally of Lindberg; William Nettles of Carlyle, an administrative assistant to Atty. Gen. William Scott; and State Central Committeeman Joseph Hale of Ridgway.

"No one has a lock on it at all," said Woodcock.

But he added that if Phillips wants it, he probably would have the support of the county chairman.

Phillips, the DuPage County GOP Chairman, was defeated by Woodcock for the presidency of the association, but Woodcock said they have remained friends.

The announcement triggered some speculation that perhaps another legislator would want to follow Lindberg's footsteps. Lindberg served in the Illinois House before his election as comptroller in 1972.

One of the names mentioned was Senate Minority Leader William Harris, a Pontiac Republican who recently announced he is retiring from the Senate when his term ends in January of 1977.

Harris said he doesn't think he would be interested in running for office but may have someone to suggest later.

The evening speaker will be Lionel Portelli, city street superintendent. There will be a question and answer period following the talk by Portelli. All persons interested in the improvement of the East Granite City area were urged to attend. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Home improvement group to meet

The monthly meeting of the East Granite Home Improvement Association will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Trinity Methodist Church, 26th and Henry streets.

The evening speaker will be Lionel Portelli, city street superintendent. There will be a question and answer period following the talk by Portelli.

All persons interested in the improvement of the East Granite City area were urged to attend. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Designer of next waterfowl stamp will receive $1,000

SPRINGFIELD—Entries are being accepted in a contest to select the design for next year's Illinois migratory waterfowl stamp.

Any Illinois resident 18 years or older is eligible to enter the contest, administered by the Illinois Ducks Unlimited chapter.

First prize will be $1,000, with certificates of merit going to the first and second place runners-up. The contest will close Jan. 31, and the winner is expected to be announced in the first week of February.

The state Conservation Department, which distributes the state hunting stamp for migratory waterfowl, is co-operating in the contest with Ducks Unlimited.

Designs must be a horizontal painting in any medium, five by seven inches in size, mounted on a mat eight by ten inches, and should be multi-color.

Next year's state stamp will feature the wood duck. The contest rules suggest that attention be paid to tone and detail in the wing and feather construction. The designs must be well-defined and suitable for engraving.

Ducks Unlimited will select five judges knowledgeable in the fields of art, conservation or ornithology, or all of them. Conservation department employees are not eligible to serve as judges. Prior to their selection on or about Feb. 1, an engraver will view the entries and classify them for suitability for engraving.

Entries should be sent to Ducks Unlimited, 1801 W. Lafayette St., Jacksonville, Ill. 62550.

Entries will be returned, and entrants will be notified of the name of the winner and the winning entry. Ducks Unlimited will keep the winner long enough to have 250 signed and numbered engravings made from it.

After the 1976 hunting stamp has been made, the winning artist will get the original back and may do what he wishes with it, except that no additional copies of the work may be made.

Entries will be identified only by number, prior to completion of the judging.

Illinois adopted a migratory waterfowl hunting stamp for the first time this year. Because of the short time between passage of the legislation authorizing the $5 stamp and the start of duck hunting season, the first stamp was commercially designed. However, in the future Ducks Unlimited and the state Conservation Department will continue to sponsor the contest to select a suitable design.

$600 TIRE THEFT

Eight truck tires and wheels, valued at more than $600, were stolen from Donson's 76 service station, 2201 W. Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell, it was reported at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday. The tires and wheels had been chained to the fence at the rear of the station's parking lot, Madison County sheriff's deputies were told.

Top soccer teams to meet

Four of the nation's top collegiate soccer teams will play in a doubleheader at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Cougar Field Saturday.

In the opening contest, the host SIUE kickers will take on 10-4-0 Cleveland State University at 11:30 a.m. Barring one or more overtime periods in that opening game, St. Louis University will take on the Akron University Zips at 1:30 p.m.

Tickets for the twin bill will cost $1.50 for students with their schools' identification cards and for children 18 and under. Adults tickets cost $2.50. There will be no advance sale of tickets. All tickets will have to be bought at the gate at Cougar Field.

Winners of the two games will meet the following Saturday, with sites and times to be announced later. The Midwest regional in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship tourney will be held Dec. 6 and 7 at Cougar Field.

Defending NCAA division I champion is Howard University of Washington, D.C.

Both Cleveland State and Akron posted one-goal victories over Howard this season.

Howard, however, after knocking off Clemson U. has regained its No. 1 national ranking in the fourth slot is SIUE, and Akron is now 10th. St. Louis U. dropped from fourth last week to No. 11, while Cleveland State is 19th.

St. Louis U. edged Cleveland State 2-1 early in the campaign. The Cougars had to rally to

Trees can aid deer hunters

By ART SCHUMANN
How many ways are there to hunt deer?
The question often is asked and the answer is: there are about as many ways as there are hunters in the field, give or take a few.

But, among the many ways is one not used by many hunters. Specifically, this method involves hunting from a portable tree stand, which puts the sportsman above the scent line and makes him almost undetectable to the deer. There are several types of stands available, most of them collapsible, light and easy to carry. The use of a stand improves the hunter's chances of getting a deer, if he knows the basics.

Before taking to the fields, the hunter should check his equipment, then smear deer scent on the bottom of his boots to eliminate human scent.

The hunter should look for fresh deer signs or an area where deer are known to feed, travel or sleep. Tracks and other indications can tell the hunter what direction the deer likely are to be traveling, so he can set up the stand for the best possible shot.
After locating a tree large enough to support the stand, the hunter should make sure it provides sufficient cover so the deer can't spot him. Another key is for the hunter to remain quiet at all times. Deer constantly are on the alert (especially during the hunting season) and the slightest sound may destroy the hunter's chances.

The best times to hunt from a tree stand are early morning and late afternoon. This can vary according to the weather, since on cold, rainy days the deer tend to move more and can be seen at any time.

The hunter should make sure he has a good view in all directions, since the usual indicators (tracks, etc.) can be misleading. And, of course, making sure the tree will support the stand is essential.
Tree stands are legal in Illinois and Wisconsin, but hunters are reminded that they may be fined heavily for damaging trees while hunting.

Ever thought about combining hunting and business? That's not a usual combination, but with the approach of the 1975-76 trapping season, the possibilities are there.
Trapping season is Nov. 8-Jan. 15 for mink, muskrat, raccoon, opossum, skunk, weasel, coyote and fox and Dec. 8-Feb. 28 for beaver.
Raccoon pelts brought as much as $17, fox pelts $30 plus and muskrat pelts $2-$3.50 last year.

Many trappers pursue the activity to augment income, but they also enjoy the adventure in the field. There is no better way to get to know the ways of nature, plus animals' habits and habits.
To check on current prices, hunters may wish to contact Mass and Steffen, a St. Louis firm that is one of the largest buyers of furs in the country.

Portell wants assistant

Lionel Portell, Granite City street superintendent, asked the city council Monday night to provide him with supervisory help because of the growing number of duties and work load in his department.

Portell told the aldermen that the additional operation of a street striper and use of the new television camera and grouter for maintenance of sanitary sewers are just part of the mounting work load in the department, and that "the supervisory load is just getting where it is more than one man can handle."

While Alderman Roy Paulos asked the street superintendent if it were true he has two foremen to assist him, Portell replied that both are working foremen and do not work in a supervisory capacity.

He said the job of laying out the work, assigning street and sewer crews, scheduling street and sidewalk repairs and a vast amount of book work "is at a point that requires more supervisory work than I can give it alone."

Portell made no specific reference to what type of help he wants, but after the meeting he told the Press-Record that he hopes to convince the council to appoint an assistant superintendent of streets.

On a motion by Alderman

Emerald Dawes of the Street and Alley Committee the council voted to refer the matter to that committee for consideration and a later recommendation to the council. During the discussion of Portell's request, Paulos asked why the street department had striped 81 White line in the center of State Street where only one-way traffic is allowed.

Portell and Monroe Brewer, city engineer, explained that striping is required under state highway department rules on all streets that are arterial highways and eligible for use of motor, fuel tax funds for maintenance.

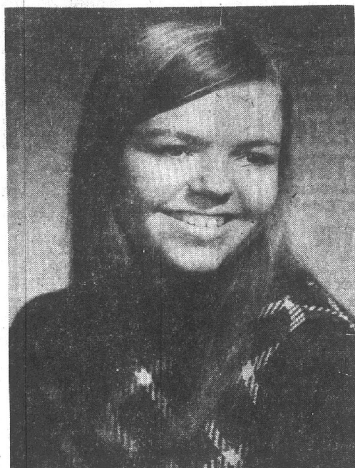

The street superintendent reported that his department received delivery this week of the newly purchased television camera and grouting equipment which will be used in the first phase of a long-range program to upgrade sanitary sewer lines in the Nameoki area. The cameras are used to determine the location of breaks or near-breaks in sewer lines.

A crew of three street department employees is being trained in use of the equipment this week by Carl Nettles of Tampa, Fla., who was sent here by the Ques Co. of Orlando, Fla., which sold the equipment to the city on a bid of $2,000.

Use of the equipment is expected to begin next week in a program to determine the condition of Nameoki area sewer lines and to probe questionable areas where near-breaks have been suspected.

Amvet Auxiliary officers attend state meeting

The Illinois Amvets and Auxiliary committee meeting the past weekend at Mount Vernon Post 4.

Attending from here were Mrs. Jackie Petras, president of Division 5 and Auxiliary Unit 51, and Mrs. Glenda Brockman, senior vice president of Division 5 and the local unit.

Mrs. Lois McCann, state auxiliary president, was in charge of the meeting and commended the local Amvet auxiliary for its community service projects. She also presented Mrs. Petras with a plaque for outstanding publicity.

It was announced at the business session that Auxiliary Unit 51 intends to distribute a total of 150 gifts at area nursing homes during the Christmas season. Also discussed were plans to construct a chapel at Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery.

The two local officers attended a dinner dance and breakfast meeting at Post 4, as part of the two-day event.

State Amvet leaders will next meet in January at Champaign.

5 state grid title contests

The host communities of Bloomington and Normal are set to roll out the red carpet to the 10 teams and their fans from each of five enrollment-size classes when they converge on Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University this weekend for the second annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) football playoff championship games.

The title game teams — including seven unbeaten with a combined record of 118-4 — earned the right to compete for the five class championships through three rounds of prior playoff competition.

Three games are set for Friday and two more for Saturday afternoon. Champions will be crowned in the three smallest classes Friday, beginning with a doubleheader in the afternoon and a single contest at night.

The next day, the two biggest classes will display their wares in a doubleheader in the afternoon.

Veterans Concord (Triopia) in Class 1A and defending champion Decatur (St. Teresa) in Class 2A are the only returnees from combat in last fall's 1A title clash.

St. Teresa is riding a 46-game winning streak and beat Alexis 16-4 last November to snare the 1974 title. Triopia has lost only one football game in the past two campaigns, that a 13-8 decision to Flanagan in last fall's 1A title clash.

Pairings for the two-day extravaganza at Bloomington are:

Friday, Nov. 21
Noon — Class 1A — Princetonville (12-0) vs. Concord

(Triopia) (12-0).

2:30 p.m. — Class 2A — Stockton (12-0) vs. Decatur (St. Teresa) (12-0).

7:30 p.m. — Class 3A — Metamora (11-1) vs. Metamora (12-0).

Saturday, Nov. 22

Noon — Class 4A — Joliet (12-0) vs. Springfield (12-0).

2:30 p.m. — Class 5A — Deerfield (12-0) vs. Rockford (12-0).

The dramatic impact of "November nonsense," a kissing cousin to the "March madness" that infects the state during the boys' state basketball tournament series, is expected to lure capacity crowds to refurbish Hancock Stadium each day.

Should single-session tickets be available for any of the sessions, they will go on sale at the ticket booths at the south end of Hancock Stadium at the following times: Session 1 (Class 1A and Class 2A) at 10 a.m. Friday; Session 2 (Class 3A) at 6 p.m. Friday; Session 3 (Class 4A and Class 5A) at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Tickets for Sessions 1 and 3 are priced at $3 each and will allow the bearer to watch both games that session. Tickets for Session 2 are priced at $2 each.

Triopia and St. Teresa will wear the favorite's cap, as does Joliet (Catholic) in Class 4A.

The battles in 3A and 5A rate as tossups.

But, based on what has developed through the preliminary, quarterfinal and semifinal rounds, almost anything can happen — and there is no doubt that an upset or two easily could be on the horizon.

As Coach Don Kemp celebrated his birthday last Saturday, his Triopia Trojans smothered Carterville 28-6 in a semifinal contest, giving up their first points in playoff competition this season.

The Triopia defense has given up only 31 points in the 12 games it has played this season.

Halfbacks Jay Wessler and Scott Lovickamp, who played in last year's title game, are a pair of grind-it-out runners whom Triopia must stop if the offense is to post a victory.

Offense has been the "name of the game" for Princetonville, which has never been held under 26 points in 12 starts this campaign. Coach Tom Bruna has been his team average 36 points per game over the season and 31 in the playoffs.

Triopia, an independent last fall, won the Western Illinois Valley Conference championship this year. Princetonville is champion of the Blackhawk Conference.

Class 1A schools have average conference enrollments of 9-300 students.

St. Teresa, the Big Okaw Valley Conference winner, has not lost since the sixth game of the 1971 season.

Coach Ed Boehm's Bulldogs have not been scored on in their last four games, including a 45-0 blitzing of Danville (Schlarman) in the semifinals, and have allowed only six points in their past seven games.

Quarterback Russ Hollingsworth and fullback Marty Bushell lead the offense at Stockton, a school with an enrollment of 398, has been the surprise of 2A competition, nipping favored Eureka 87-7 in the semifinals.

Coach John O'Boyle's Blackhaws are champions of the Northwestern Illinois Conference and have allowed no more than eight points to each of the opponents except Freeport (Aquino), who got 10 in the fourth game of the season. Linebacker John Blair keys the defense.

Class 2A schools have an average conference enrollment of 304 to 512.

The first night championship game in the playoffs matches a pair of teams possessing great offensive weapons.

Metamora, champion of the Heart of Illinois Conference, is led by fullback Larry Sommer, who ran for the two-point conversion win, and margin of victory (11-12) over East St. Louis (Lincoln) in the semifinals. Sommer churned up 275 yards and 2,190 ground in the preliminary game win over Alton (Marquette).

Geneva, Little Seven Conference champion, and Joliet (Catholic) are the only schools to have won a league game that produced last fall's Class 3A state title (West Chicago), has a bone-crushing offense centered around 2-190-pound fullback Tim Sandman.

Class 3A schools have average enrollments of 513 to 988.

If ever there was a clear-cut favorite, it has to be Joliet (Catholic) in Class 4A. The Hilltoppers of Coach Gordon Gillespie walked through the rugged Illinois Eight Conference, giving up only 14 points in the process, and have been rated the top 4A team all season.

Fullback Rick Thayer, a 6-0, 200-pounder, has been unstoppable during the playoffs, averaging better than 100 yards rushing per game.

Springfield (Griffin), on the other hand, barely was selected as the Capitol Conference representative after the league race ended in a three-way tie. Only four of the league's eight schools voted for Coach George Fleischli's Cyclones to gain the playoff berth, and now the year head coach finds himself and his "bantam roster" team in the championship game.

Class 4A schools have average conference enrollments of from 989 to 1,956.

Both combatants are parochial schools, Joliet (Catholic) being co-educational and Griffin at all-boy school.

Deerfield, the Central Suburban North champion, may be peaking at the right time.

Coach Paul Adams' Warriors led by quarterback Mark Carlson (No. 12) who has thrown a pair of touchdowns passes in each of the three previous playoff games, beat favored Glen Ellyn (Glenbard West) and Wilmette (Loyola) in the quarterfinals and semifinals, respectively.

Deerfield will pose many problems for Rockford (Boylan), itself a mystery team emerging from the Big Nine Conference, which produced last fall's Class 4A winner Rockford (East).

Coach Ben Murray's Titans who lost their final regular season game (28-0 to Freeport) knocked off the state's top-rated big school team, Villa Park (Willowbrook), 21-13 in the semifinals, and would like nothing better than to bring the conference home to the second state football title in two years.

Class 5A schools have average conference enrollments ranging from 1,967 to 3,963.

Madison is 3A, GCHS North 4A and GCHS South 5A.

North cage, mat tickets on sale

Gilbert Wamsley, principal at GCHS North, announced this week the sale of adult season passes for all Steele basketball and wrestling home events.

During the 1975-76 season, North High will have nine home basketball games, starting Dec. 5 against Springfield Griffin; and six home wrestling meets, starting Dec. 1 against Hazelwood Central.

"Normally," said Wamsley, "adult admission for athletic events is $1.50 a person. With season passes, adults can attend the events at a cost of $1 per event."

Persons wishing to obtain passes may do so, from now through Wednesday, Nov. 26, at the school's main office during school hours.

Club takes tree planting survey

The November meeting of the Gardenaires Garden Club was held last week at the home of Mrs. Alex Tarpo, who served a dessert lunch at noon to 11 members and one guest, Mrs. Richard Kerch.

A survey was conducted among the members concerning the number of trees and shrubs planted during the past year. The information will be used by the District V horticulture chairman to determine any increase in planting within the district.

Members answered roll call with information about parsnips and sweet potatoes.

In the business session, a letter from Mrs. S. Feury of Belam Brazil thanked the club for seeds which were sent for distribution to school children in that region. Also read was acknowledgement from the Madison County Retarded Children's Association, regarding coupons sent by the Gardenaires.

Mrs. Tarpo reported planting is underway at the entrance to the Madison County Nature and Bicycle Trail and that wood chip material will be available this month.

Mrs. A. A. Malotki said the mini-garden center at the Granite City Public Library features mums, their care and culture, and the varieties suitable for this area. She also reported that extensive remodeling in the library will prevent the club from decorating the facility, an annual tradition each Christmas.

A limited number of pressed flower pictures still is available for sale. Mrs. R. K. Hintz reported. She said a workshop was held last week at the home of Mrs. William J. Edwards and another is scheduled in January.

Members discussed pioneer horticulturists, their backgrounds and contributions to their era to conclude the program.

Mrs. Long will be in charge of the Dec. 11 meeting to be held at a tea room in Edwardsville. Others attending last week's session were Mrs. C. E. Eads, Mrs. Earl Glenn, Mrs. Mary Kristian, Mrs. Leo Schank, Mrs. B. Shannon, Mrs. Thomas Layloff Jr., and Mrs. Charles Kohl, president.

Niedringhaus Church bazaar

The annual holiday bazaar will be held Friday at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, it was announced by the United Methodist Women, who sponsor the event.

Bazaar booths will be open at 9 a.m. and lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. with dinner from 5 to 7 p.m.

All articles offered for sale were made by the women of the church. They include baguette items, knitwear and a variety of holiday ornaments, home baked pies, cakes and breads. The church youth groups also will have a display of homemade candies, such as fudge, pralines and divinity, the organizers said.

LOCAL MARCH OF DIMES LEADERS visit with Vicki Lynn Tanksley of Granite City, who has been named the Madison County Birth Defects Child for 1975. From left to right are Ellis B. and Wilma Herring, general chairmen for the 1976 March of Dimes campaign in Granite City, and Kathy and Tommie Lane, Mothers March chairman and co-chairman, respectively. Vicki Lynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Tanksley, 2529 Westmoreland Drive. All four adults are active members of Calvary Baptist Church. A bread sale Friday and Saturday will launch the 1976 fund raising campaign.

March of Dimes leaders named to direct '76 drive for funds

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Press-Record Staff Writer
Mr. and Mrs. Ellis B. (Wilma) Herring, 2501 E. 26th St., have been named chairmen of the Granite City March of Dimes for 1976.

Keen interest in community involvement programs is not the sole reason the Harrings are participating in the March of Dimes campaign. The couple has a deep personal reason for helping. They have a 3½-year-old grandson, Robby, who was born with brain damage.

To launch the 1976 fund raising drive, a bread sale is planned Friday and Saturday with donations of any amount being sought in exchange for a loaf of bread.

The sale will be conducted by young people from Calvary Baptist Church and other volunteer youth, or leaves purchased at Herring's Flowers and Gifts, 2700 Madison Ave.

All proceeds will be added to the March of Dimes fund.

Volunteers to help in the neighborhood door-to-door bread sale still are needed, Mrs. Herring said. Those interested are being asked to call 877-5014 for information.

Mrs. Herring served as Mothers March chairman in 1975. Both she and her husband are active in community and civic affairs and in programs at Calvary Baptist Church.

The Harrings own and operate the flower and gift shop. They are members of the Granite City Rotary Club and Rotary Annex and the Chamber of Commerce of the Tri-Cities. Herring is past president of the Madison County Florist Association and was chosen to represent Region 8 of the Florist Transworld Delivery as "Member of the Year."

Active church members, Mrs. Herring teaches a Sunday school class and both sing in the church choir.

Another important concern in Ellis and Wilma Herring's life was realized last summer when the couple made two trips to Tulsa, Okla., with truckloads of clothing they had gathered from donors.

The donated clothing was delivered to a family friend who works as a missionary among Indian families in that region. Herring frequently provides demonstrations in his art as a florist to area civic clubs, church organizations and other groups.

The Harrings are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Pam) Boynton of Granite City and Mrs. Bill (Debra) Brown of Irving, Tex., and two sons, Jeff and Chet Herring, both students at Granite City High School South.

Both Mrs. Boynton and Jeff are employed at the florist shop.

Mrs. Herring announced this week that Kathy and Tommie Lane, owners of George Lindsey's Family Steak House, 3301 Nameoki Road, have agreed to serve as chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the traditional Mothers March Porchlight March in January.

Mrs. Lane is a teacher's helper at Russell Johnson Grade School. Her husband operates the steak house and serves as secretary of the Granite City Restaurant Owners Association.

The Lanes are active members of Calvary Baptist Church and enjoy a variety of interests, including renovating antique cars, gardening and golf.

The couple will coordinate activities in the annual Mothers March, scheduled in Granite City between Jan. 18 and Jan. 31.

Mrs. Herring said funds contributed to the March of Dimes are used to fight birth defects through research — seeking cause and prevention, improved diagnosis and treatment; care — supporting a network of birth defects centers in hospitals throughout the country; professional information, education and training — to increase the task force of medical personnel qualified to meet the problem and to inform medical workers of advances in the field.

Chapter services — centers of community information and action, mobilizing and augmenting resources, carrying out health education and professional and public information projects, assisting the professions, working with other agencies and helping patients and their families; and public information — to spread awareness of the birth defects problem and what can be done and to rally support for the fight against it.

At least 250,000 babies are born with significant defects in the U. S. each year, Mrs. Herring said. The figure represents 700 a day or one every two minutes, she pointed out.

Birth defects are the nation's second greatest destroyer of life after heart disease. Birth defects claim 50,000 lives each year—40,000 children and adults, plus an estimated 50,000 babies who died before birth as a result of defects.

By conservative estimate, some 15 million Americans have one or more birth defects which affect their daily lives. About 1,375,000 of them are pre-school children. More children are hospitalized for birth defects than for all infectious diseases combined.

At least half of all mental retardation is caused by defective prenatal development. Nearly 3 million persons in the U. S. are mentally retarded because of birth defects.

Mrs. Herring said the cost in anguish to parents, in medical bills to families and to society for support of institutional care is incalculable. Pre-school children with birth defects, for example, spend about 6 million days in hospitals each year at a cost of over $180 million.

The National Foundation-March of Dimes has established a network of Birth Defects Centers in hospitals through the country. They emphasize early diagnosis and evaluation and provide comprehensive care.

Many conduct special research to understand complex defects better and to develop improved treatment methods. They also provide continuing education for students, physicians and other medical team members.

The centers are the hub of a new national effort to make early diagnosis, prompt and total care and rehabilitation to every birth defects patient who needs it, Mrs. Herring said.

Winter Carnival at Sacred Heart

Sacred Heart Winter Carnival planned for Dec. 6, featuring game booths, holiday articles for sale and a roast dinner, was discussed at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Organization, sponsors of the fund raising project.

President Mrs. Maggie Williamson presided and announced the carnival will be held from 5 to 9 p.m. with room mothers supervising various booths.

A country store, cake walk, Santa's workshop and a photographer to take pictures of the children with Santa are planned. Prizes for the games will be handmade items prepared by PTO members.

Cost of the dinner will be $2.25 for adults and $1.50 for children. Among those assisting Mrs. Williamson is Mrs. Mary Ann Stuart, room mother chairman; and Barbara Walker, Donna Narup and Sylvia Zabawa, prize committee.

The president said the carnival is open to the public and all proceeds will be used to purchase school equipment.

Sister Mary Karla, school principal, opened the meeting and welcomed 50 members. She reported the students are preparing a Biceptennial program during school hours for presentation in March.

Mrs. Kathy Heagy, a member of the school's boosters club, asked parents to serve as chaperones at sports events. She noted the basketball season opened this week for 7th and 8th grade boys.

Tin mill price hike; develop weight variety

National Steel Corporation announced Tuesday a revision of its prices for tin mill products, effective with shipments of 12:01 a.m. Jan. 15, 1976. The firm owns Granite City Steel.

National Steel announced also the commercial production of double-reduced electrolytic tin plate, tin free steel and black plate in 50-pound base weights at prices substantially lower than the prices of these materials in 55-pound base weights.

The new, lighter-weight plate is being offered as an alternative to the 55-pound plate which now is used widely to produce bodies for a large variety of steel cans.

Such increases include, notably, labor rates and fringe benefits, prices and costs of production of raw materials, energy costs, freight rates and a host of other cost elements. The price increases announced for tin mill products cover only a portion of these higher costs.

Stinson emphasized that National Steel has pursued vigorously programs to alleviate the pressure on the costs of container materials to the canmaker.

"Availability of the less-expensive, lighter-base-weight materials is the result of production breakthroughs achieved in a joint program by our research and development and our tin mills.

"We continue to pursue other promising programs looking to the use of less-expensive black plate and the use of higher-tensile, lighter-gauge, lower-cost steel materials in the manufacture of steel cans."

Bequeaths funds to college

Westminster College at Fulton, Mo., has received a $83,835 bequest for scholarships for worthy students, from the estate of an alumnus who was the recipient of a $35-a-semester scholarship in 1935.

William L. Stucker, vice president of the College, said Westminster was designated by the late Harold W. (Hal) Stark, a native Granite City and a veteran Chicago radio and television announcer-commentator, as the beneficiary of his American Federation of Television and Radio Actors pension.

Stark also bequeathed 50 per cent of his estate to Westminster, and directed that it be used to provide scholarships for worthy students.

The AFTRA Pension Fund has sent Westminster a check for $13,835, and the executor of Stark's estate has estimated that the College will receive approximately $50,000 under the terms of his will.

Members of the Westminster faculty and administration who recall Stark's student days, said: "He was one of a number of young men who attended college during the depression, who wouldn't have been able to enroll if he hadn't received some form of financial aid."

Stark, who was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Z. Stark of Granite City, had to wait three years after his graduation from high school before he could enter college. He attended the private four-year liberal arts college for a year and a half, and received the College's "U.S. Liberty Loan Scholarship." The $105 in scholarships that he received paid one-third of his tuition.

Stark sang with the St. Louis Metropolitan Opera and later played leading man to Mae West in several New York stage productions. He served in North Africa and Italy during World War II, and after the war joined WGN Radio in Chicago. In 1949 he joined CBS, working in several positions for Chicago's WBBN-FM radio and WBBN-TV, including disc jockey, news reporter and staff announcer. For a number of years Stark hosted the popular "Music 'til Dawn" on WBBN Radio. He died last Aug. 21 at the age of 61. Stucker said the bequest will endow the Harold W. Stark Scholarship at Westminster.

Major crimes in the city of Madison increased 33 per cent during October this year over those of the same month in 1974, Madison City Council members were informed Tuesday night in a report by the Police Department.

The report showed, however, that half of the total increase was in the category for auto thefts, nine of which were reported last month, compared to one in October 1974.

A total of 64 crimes in eight categories occurred in the city last month, up from 46 in the same month a year ago. There were no criminal homicide cases either last month or in October 1974. There were no

First Ward Alderman Robert Don Reeves, chairman of the Insurance committee reported, "We have had one meeting with the city department heads and representatives of the insurance companies, that submitted bids. However, we will need another meeting with everyone before we can make a recommendation. We should have a recommendation for the next council meeting."

Fifth Ward Alderman Donald Garrett said, "I would like to have a street light installed in the middle of the 700 block of Jefferson Street." He then put his request in the form of a Three youths driving the car which caused the accident fled from the scene on foot, leaving their car behind. Witnesses said they were carrying items in their hands when they fled.

Reed said he was northbound on August, stopped his car at the stop sign and proceeded into the intersection. An oncoming car failed to stop for the stop sign on Edwards Street and struck the side of Reed's car. One car then spun into the front of the tavern while the other car continued and struck

Turkey supply is ample

The 1975 turkey crop is down some, but homemakers will find plenty of gobblers in supermarkets for the Thanksgiving feast. At prices only slightly above last year, according to poultry specialists.

Varying reports about a short crop of turkeys have suggested that prices in stores will be considerably higher than last year, when there was a large supply of the birds.

But it's not going to be that drastic, authorities say.

Turkey production and cold storage reports indicate an overall reduction of about 10 per cent in this year's turkey crop.

Add three to 'search' group

Three persons have been added to the search committee for a vice-president for administration at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, it was announced by President John S. Rendleman Tuesday.

Dr. Rendleman said he felt it would be helpful to broaden the membership of the committee by adding constituency representation. He has asked the heads of three constituency groups or their representatives to serve on the committee.

The three new members of the committee will be: Eugene Haffner, chairman of the Non-Academic Employees Advisory Council; Robin Roberts, president of the SIUE student body; and Lionel Walford, president of the University Senate.

Other members of the search committee charged with the task of screening applicants for the position include: Vice President and Provost Andrew J. Kochman, chairman; Dean Vaughn J. Lindsay of the SIUE Graduate School; and Professor Earl Lazerson, dean of the School of Science and Technology.

The search for a vice-president for administration is part of a general administrative reorganization announced by Rendleman in August. He said last week that realignment in the student affairs area is developing, and a search is under way for an executive dean of student affairs.

The president also said he is reviewing recommendations from the vice-president and provost for changes in the academic affairs area.

New number for calls on child abuse

The 24-hour hotline number of the Child Abuse Emergency Service Unit in Maryville has been changed to 345-8818, Supervisor William Wasko announced this week.

The unit is a facility of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services. It has the task of responding to child abuse and neglect cases in Madison, St. Clair, Monroe and Randolph counties.

By law, it must investigate each case reported and provide appropriate services to abused children and their families.

Wasko said the new number is staffed around the clock, seven days a week.

He said any citizen reporting suspected child abuse or neglect to the Maryville unit is accorded full immunity under the law from any legal action that could be brought against him.

He added that doctors, policemen, teachers and other professionals required by law to report suspected abuse have been notified of the number change.

Amvets Auxiliary votes donations

Donations to Jefferson Barracks Veterans Hospital and Madison County Nursing Home were authorized at last week's meeting of Amvets Auxiliary Unit 51.

The group met at Amvets Post 31 clubhouse, 5100 Lakeview Drive, with Mrs. Jackie Petras, president, in charge. Mrs. Marie Darnal led the pledge of allegiance and Chaplain Trudy McGowan offered a prayer.

Letters of appreciation were read from children living at an orphanage and from two area families, which were aided by the auxiliary. Six "get well" cards were signed for mailing. Mrs. Ann Tucker gave a hospital report.

Bicentennial dollars will be sent to boys in the orphanage for Christmas, it was decided. Plans also were made to take part in next year's Bicentennial parade by entering a decorated float.

In the social hour, Mrs. Melba Manning won a prize and those attending were served a buffet luncheon by Mrs. Tucker.

Seated is Ricky Singleton, a dispatcher for the Granite City police.

Construction

he did not believe the city could issue a sewer tapon permit for the new tavern until the Nameoki ditch problem is resolved.

The aldermen did, however, give unanimous approval to a drainage plan presented during Monday night's council meeting by K. R. Keene, a Collinsville engineer, acting in Gilcho's behalf.

Keene's presentation of the drainage plan, which adds a six-inch stormwater line from a point at the rear of the lounge site to carry additional drainage water to a catch basin at the rear of yards of homes along Clark Avenue, followed presentation of a letter by Richard Allen, Gilcho's attorney.

In that letter, Allen said the council had no legal right to "vote a stop order on the project because the proper permits had been issued, an earlier drainage plan had been approved by the city engineer and all work conformed with building standards. Allen said the stop order has resulted in additional costs because of a time limit clause in the contract.

After Allen's letter was introduced, Alderman Emerald Dawes of the Seventh Ward who has led the fight against construction of the lounge in behalf of a delegation of neighborhood residents, most of whom live along Clark Avenue, moved the letter be placed on file.

Dawes then said that a new petition had been filed by objectors to the O.K. Corral project. He asked City Clerk Robert Stevens to read that petition which contained approximately 30 signatures per page on ten pages.

The text of the petition read: "We the undersigned residents of Granite do hereby petition the mayor to act in accordance with the responsibilities of his office and to the citizens by upholding the laws pertaining to the licensing of alcoholic liquor dealers as specified in Chapter 15 of the Municipal Code of Granite City in the matter of the liquor license for the establishment to be known as the O.K. Corral located directly north of the McDonald's Restaurant on Johnson Road.

"Article 15.012 specifies that 'A retail liquor dealer's license shall permit the sale of alcoholic liquor only in premises described in the application and license.' Therefore, since the license application for the Corral Liquor Store specifies that it is for a retail package liquor store it is clear that the O.K. Corral, a tavern located several hundred feet away in a separate building, cannot be allowed to operate under the same liquor license as the Corral Liquor Store and must be required to meet the requirements of the licensing laws for a separate license.

"Article 15.018 specifies that 'No person shall hereafter engage in business as a retailer of any alcoholic liquor within 400 feet of another location where a liquor license has been issued.' Since the O.K. Corral is located approximately 200 feet from the Corral Liquor Store which already has a liquor license, it is clear that an application for a license for the O.K. Corral must be refused."

The drainage issue was resumed when Dawes moved that Gilcho, who was in the audience, be permitted to address the council. Allen spoke in Gilcho's behalf, however, referring to his letter. Allen introduced Keene who distributed a map of a revised drainage plan to the aldermen and city officials.

Keene said that originally the drainage plan for the lounge site, which will include a substantial parking lot area, called for drainage into a stormwater line on Johnson Road.

"Mr. Gilcho asked me to look at it again and I suggested to him that in order to avoid any problem we could extend a buried pipe to catch the drainage from the neighbors' yards (along Clark Avenue)," Keene said. This will cost around $1,000 but would be a good neighbor policy.

Alderman Sam Whitmer told the council that he had talked with a contractor about the drainage issue and was told that drainage plans presented for the lounge site were sufficient to drain the area without affecting the yards of residents living behind the lounge site.

"There is no question in my mind that the plans are sufficient and the area will drain properly," Whitmer said. "There may be other questions such as the license or sewer problems, but I won't get into those now. It is clear to me that the drainage is O.K."

Dawes called for a legal opinion from City Attorney George Filcoff as to which is the side and which is the front of the property on which the lounge is being built. Dawes said there is a variation in the allowable property setbacks of front and back. Filcoff said he could not answer such a question off hand. Dawes asked Filcoff to provide such an opinion later.

David Maycock of 1526 Clark Ave. who has done most of the speaking for the objectors during the past several weeks of the building controversy was asked by Mayor Paul Schulz if he had anything he wanted to say to the council.

Maycock said that the primary purpose of the attendance of a group of residents Monday night was to present the new petition concerning the issuance of the liquor license. Objections to the lounge building first were made in a petition signed by area residents on Oct. 20. At that time the petition, alleging that drainage provisions were insufficient, that the lounge operation would devalue property and that it would present sanitation and litter problems as well as a noise nuisance, was placed on file after several aldermen noted that the proper building permits had been issued and that all building work conformed to building standards.

The issue was renewed in the council session on Oct. 27, however, and resulted in a council vote to stop work on the construction until engineers could take a new look at the drainage plans. Work was stopped Oct. 30 on an order given Gilcho by Filcoff.

Dawes at that time said Gilcho should do his own engineering work and appear before the council to explain the plans to drain the area. Later, objectors challenged a report that the lounge tavern could be operated under the same liquor license issued to Gilcho as owner and operator of the Corral Liquor Store at 3304 Nameoki Road.

Schulz said then that he had received a legal opinion by Filcoff that the one license would be sufficient for both the liquor store and the tavern, although they are not in the same building.

After a brief discussion concerning the tavern license, Mayor Schulz suggested Monday night that Gilcho and city officials, together with their attorneys, meet to resolve that question later. Schulz said Wednesday that he hopes to arrange such a meeting soon.

Gilcho said he does not believe he will be hampered by the EPA ban on sewer tapons. "I believe I can resolve that problem when the time comes," he said.

In a letter read to the council before discussion on the issue began, Allen said:

"On behalf of Mr. B. C. Gilcho, I am requesting that he be allowed to appear before the city council on Nov. 17, 1975, and explain the engineering steps that have been taken to insure proper drainage at the site of the new building at 3304 (rear) Nameoki Road.

"We have been informed that the city council, on Oct. 30, by motion ordered our construction halted until there is a determination made as to how drainage at the site will be handled. Please be advised that we have heretofore submitted our drainage plans and topes to the building inspector and city engineer.

"We were approved as to drainage as per the letter of the city engineer of Oct. 27. Nevertheless, in the interest of the relationships with our neighbors and the city, we are eager to appear and explain in detail the drainage plans. However, we respectfully point out the following:

"1. Any question of Riparian Rights is a civil legal question to be dealt with between the parties and the city is not an actual party thereto.

"2. All of our plans, building and drainage, have been heretofore approved by the proper city officials; based on this representation, we have obligated ourselves, the mortgage company and the contractors in an amount which will be dealt with the delays and penalties occasioned by the stop order, could exceed $250,000.

"3. Any stop work order which would be legal to insulate the city and its officials from damage suits by the mortgage company and the contractor must be by the city inspector and based on construction that

Extra dividend by First GC National Bank

The board of directors of First Granite City National Bank at its meeting on Tuesday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents per share, plus a year-end extra of 40 cents, both payable on Dec. 15 to stock of record on Dec. 8.

This makes a total distribution of $2 per share, equaling last year's payout, a spokesman for the bank said.

The board also approved transfer of $200,000 from the undivided profits account to surplus, increasing this account to $2,000,000.

is being prosecuted contrary to the provisions of BOCA, or in an unsafe or dangerous manner or which is in violation of the zoning ordinance.

"We respectfully submit that this is not the situation in the case at hand. I am sure your building officials will confirm that there is no provision in BOCA or your ordinance for stopping construction of a job on a motion of the city council to approve drainage. Our contracts having to do with the financing and construction of this very expensive building have, of necessity, included a penalty clause for failure to complete work within a specified time.

"The deadline for completion for this building was Dec. 25, 1975. Work has now been held up 30 days. If the delay continues, because of our commitments with the mortgage company and the contractors, we may be left with no alternative but to file an injunction and a suit for damages. We hope, of course, that we may not be forced into this situation.

"We are aware that it is politically expedient for an alderman to be active at the behest of 45 or 50 constituents who are now heard to complain variously about taverns in general, traffic congestion and even shopping centers in general. None of the foregoing questions, however, are at issue in our situation and we are not attempting nor expecting to try to alter all the ramifications in general, traffic congestion and even shopping centers in general. None of the foregoing questions, however, are at issue in our situation and we are not attempting nor expecting to try to alter all the ramifications in general, traffic congestion and even shopping centers in general.

"This has become a legal question dealing with building permits, questionable stop work orders and all the ramifications following therefrom. Believe me, it is our desire to co-operate and, therefore, we are pleased to appear before the council setting forth our plans for drainage.

"However, since it was never contended that our work is dangerous, or unsafe, or contrary to the building code, which incidentally is the only legal way this construction can be stopped, we earnestly suggest that work on the building be renewed immediately without any further restrictions."

One youth surrendered himself, police released the name of a girl they had not yet charged and officers determined that one of two arrested they thought were juveniles could be tried as an adult.

Richard D. Hoover, 20, of 2911 Buxton Ave., came with his attorney to the Granite City Police Department at 3:45 p.m. Monday after hearing he was being sought. He was charged with unlawful delivery of cannabis and was released after posting $1,000 bond.

Officers had not released her name Monday morning due to confusion about her true name.

Paul Howell Jr., 17, of 5212 Lakeview Drive, Pontoon Beach, was charged in an informational document Monday with unlawful delivery of marijuana. He was charged in the information from the Madison County State's Attorney's Office after investigating officers determined the alleged sale had occurred when he was 17-years-of-age rather than when he was a juvenile. His bond was set at $15,000.

At 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, police on routine patrol saw Robert Tuft, 17, of 3218 Kilarney Drive, walking at Maryville Road and O'Hare Avenue, and stopped him for questioning in connection with the series of drug arrests.

Most of those arrested Monday morning were taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville after failing to post bonds which ranged from $2,500 to $30,000.

Couple charged with theft by possession

Thomas "Buzz" York and his wife, Hazel "Connie" York, 12284 Madison Ave., Madison, were released Tuesday after each posted a $300 cash bond on charges alleging theft by possession.

The Madison County Grand Jury on Nov. 12 returned a suppressed indictment and the Yorks reportedly were notified by the Madison County Sheriff's Department that it had a warrant for their arrest.

Accompanied by their attorney, the couple appeared at the Madison County Sheriff's office voluntarily and posted bond, authorities said.

Luncheon party for Alpha Eta

Alpha Eta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society met for a luncheon last week at the Diamond Mineral Springs Hotel in Grantfork, Ill.

Mrs. Agnes Fryntzko of Granite City, chapter president, conducted the business session. Committee reports were given and the project committee accepted donations for the Salvation Army's Tree of Lights campaign to help needy families at Christmas.

The program, under the direction of the research committee, was "Changing Attitudes Toward Woman's Role: Know Thyself."

Hostesses for the meeting were Ila Lowery and Anna Mae Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Gagon of Arnold, Mo., who are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, opened the cultural program of Precursor Beta Gamma Chapter with a prayer.

Gagon outlined the life of Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon religion. They explained the beliefs of their faith and also the structure of administrative and priesthood of the all-voluntary unpaid ministry.

Readings were given from the King James version of the Bible, "The Book of Mormon" and "Doctrine and Covenants."

Mrs. Pat Gagon commented on the woman's part in the closely-knit family home life, stating the courses of study start at the age of 8 years and continues until death.

The book, "The Relief Society," gives lessons in religion, social relations, skills in homemaking, cultural refinements and stresses the family unit, she said. Some of the rituals were described and pictures of temples were shown.

Vice-president Dolores Byrnes hosted the meeting in her home.

Ruth Stoyanoff read lists of groceries and staple food items for each to bring to the December meeting to fill Christmas gift baskets.

Mrs. Arlene Haldeman reviewed the sorority's City Council meeting and plans for the Valentine Ball, Founders Day and the bicentennial parade. She also won a prize.

The hostess served a dessert course to those named and to Betty Ebling, Pat Tsigolaroff, Jane Laule, Norma Rains and Delores Dorich.

MRS. MARIE PERRY ENTERTAINS CLUB

Logan Cub Scouts achieve awards

Pumpkins, Indian corn, corn stalks and a large witch decorated the gymnasium at Logan school for a monthly meeting and seasonal party of Cub Pack 4, sponsored by the Logan PTA unit.

Costumes were worn by the cubs and their parents. Games were played and contests were staged, including bobbing for apples and apple relay races. Refreshments were doughnuts, apple cider and coffee.

The Webelos Den, led by Roland Douglas, gave the opening ceremony and presented the history of the United States flag.

Cubmaster Gary Miller gave awards to John Abbott and Terry Perrin, Bobcat badges; Darrell Cooper, Wolf badge, one gold and two silver arrows; Timmy Barton, one gold arrow and David Wilmouth, six silver arrows.

Webelos receiving awards were: Jimmy Barnes, geologist and two-year pin; Clay Douglas, aquanaut, outdoorsman and two-year pin;

Danny Payne, aquanaut and Webelos colors; Darren Miller, scholar, two-year pin and Webelos colors; Wilford Brooks and Billy Johns, Webelos colors; and Eddie Kitzman and David Lumpkins, Webelos colors and two-year pin.

Cubmaster Miller and Mrs. Judy Miller received three-year pins; Judy Hargrove, Bob Niesporek, two-year pins; and Richard Johnson and Ava Lee, one-year pins.

At the annual Scout Recognition Dinner, Pack 4's Webelos gave the opening ceremony. Boys taking part were David Lumpkins, Wilford Brooks, Jimmy Barnes, Darren Miller, Clay Douglas, Billy Johns, Steve Whitaker, Danny Hankins, Danny Payne and Eddie Kitzman.

Cubmaster Miller reported the pack has received the National Summertime Award by holding various events throughout the summer months. Special activities, included—May, Pack 4 bicycle rodeo at Logan School; June—participation in the council Bicycle Rodeo at Nameeki School and a family picnic; July—taking part in the Shriners parade and Webelos attending Camp Sunnen; and August—attending a Cardinal baseball game.

In addition to pack-sponsored events, the cubs also were involved in all council activities, Miller said.

Pack 4 cubs also attended the Boy Scout Camporee at Camp Warren Levi, Godfrey, last month for the second year. The Logan Cub Scouts comprise the only pack in the Uniwah District to attend as a group on two occasions, Miller said.

Granite City Park sports banquet — 'Parade of Champions'

"THE MAD HUNGARIAN," St. Louis Cardinals Pitcher Al Hrabosky, right, checks the grip of Granite Cityan Danny Miller on a baseball as Mayor Paul Schuler also observes during the Granite City Park District's sports awards banquet Monday.

"From the display of trophies here, it appears a great many youngsters enjoyed an outstanding year in their athletic endeavors," said Bolton Red Sox Pitcher Rick Wise as he and other national sports figures gathered at Granite City High School South's cafeteria Monday evening to help honor the Granite City Park District's 16th annual sports awards banquet.

"Amateur organizations, I believe," added Wise, who began his career in Little League, "are stepping stones to the major leagues. So, set your sights high and strive toward achievements."

"You have many qualities which will eventually extend into life itself—fellowship, team work and fair play."

In attendance also were St. Louis Baseball Cardinals' Pitcher Al Hrabosky, Philadelphia Phillies' Pitcher Steve Carlton, St. Louis Football Cardinals' Fullback Tim Otis, St. Louis Baseball Cardinals' Trainer Gene Giesemann, and former Granite Cityan Dal Maxvill.

Otis, who was applauded by more than 500 persons in the audience for his performance Sunday in the football Cardinals' 30-17 overtime win over Washington, told the youthful athletes, "You can't be a champion until you start thinking like one."

He instructed the athletes to "set spiritual goals, such as courage and confidence. Have the attitude that you are the best player in your position—whether you be in little league, high school, college, or professional sports."

"And then start trading punches with life's problems as you did on the playing field," Hrabosky related his experiences as a youth, in an attempt to instill in his listeners the old adage, "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

"I've had to fight for everything all my life. Nothing ever came easy for me. So I'm going to tell you the Mad Hungarian's story."

"At 8 years old I tried out for Little League but I wasn't accepted. Next year at 9 years old, I went back and tried out. The coach said, 'I told you last year to go home.' At 10 I went back again and the coach said they were starting a girls' softball league, but he didn't think I could make it. At 11 I moved to Southern California and finally I made the Little League."

"As an 8th grader I tried out for the school baseball team, but it was no dice. In the 11th grade I made the varsity team at third base—as a coach."

"In my senior year I finally pitched and threw everything past everyone. But no one wanted me."

"I was drafted number one by the Cardinals in the free agent draft in 1969, but they never came back to sign me. But I went to them and begged them to sign me up."

"When I am on the mound if you haven't got Cardinals on your chest you are in trouble, even if you're in the stands," the famed relief pitcher stated.

Hrabosky not only succeeded in making the team, but eventually was viewed by many as this past season's most outstanding major league pitcher.

As a relief hurler with St. Louis in 1975, he posted a 13-3 record with a 1.67 earned-run average, and had 22 saves.

Regarding his performance the previous day with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in which he narrated "Peter and the Wolf," Hrabosky said he was "waiting for the critics report," but expected to expand his career.

With tongue-in-cheek he added, "I'll take a two-year leave of absence from the Cardinals and make a concert tour of Russia with 'Peter and the Wolf.'"

Agway, it's probably a CIA plot sending me to Russia to disrupt that country."

Carlton, after congratulating the youthful award winners, noted, "Whatever the price you have to pay for success, the rewards can be comparable to these gentlemen seated here with me. They all are successful in their respective sport."

"The baseball world is going to miss him dearly," said Carlton turning toward Maxvill, who retired this year.

Maxvill, one of the most successful athletes to come from Granite City, started his baseball career in 1951 with the Granite City Police League and was a Granite City High School player under Coach Al Lewis.

A graduate of Washington University, St. Louis, where he received a degree in electrical engineering, Maxvill was signed as an infielder by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1960 after playing in such leagues here at the Inter-City. He was a member of the Granite City Sacred Heart team.

Barry Loman, park district vice-president, noted "on his first night in a Cardinal uniform, Dal went straight home after the game and left his wife, Diana, at the ballpark."

"She had to telephone him at home to return for her."

Maxvill was a member of the Cardinals' 1964-67-68 World Series teams. Traded to Oakland in 1973, he then went to Pittsburgh in August 1973 and rejoined the Oakland club in May 1974.

A coach at Oakland this summer, he also was activated as a shortstop. He announced his retirement from the sport this fall.

On May 23, 1966, Granite City honored Maxvill with a testimonial dinner, and in 1968 he was the recipient of the Sporting News Gold Glove award.

Maxvill saw action in five World Series—with St. Louis in 1964, 1967 and 1968 and with Oakland in 1972 and 1974—as well as playing second base in the all-star game the year the Cardinals provided all four starting infielders.

"Everyone in Granite City relates to Dal Maxvill," said Park Board Commissioner Jake Hinterser. "You hear remarks such as, 'Yeah, I played with him in high school, whenever his name is mentioned.'"

A standing ovation was given to the former Granite Cityan as he stepped to the speaker's podium when Loman announced, "Ladies and gentlemen, I would like Dal Maxvill to come forward and receive the Granite City Park District's 1975 appreciation award."

Somewhat surprised, Maxvill said, "Now I know why my wife and children are here tonight."

Upon being presented with the park district's most prestigious award, he looked directly at the youthful athletes he had come to help honor that night and commented, "Awards boost ones ego, but something like this is a boost for the soul."

He then presented a championship trophy to representatives of the Elks Lodge 1063 team for capturing first place in the Dal Maxvill Baseball League.

Five persons also were cited with service awards for their contributions of time and effort in supporting youth programs in this community.

Park Commissioner Hinterser cited Norman Mahl for having served as a coach for two years, and manager for five years in the park district's baseball program. And also cited Bill McFarland's services as a coach in the district's Flag Football program for four years and as a manager for the past five years.

Commissioner Robert Patrick presented service awards to Giles Smith and Frank Pinkston.

Smith has served as a baseball manager for eight years and last year served as coach of the Braves baseball team, which the park district has no junior league. Smith also has served on the baseball rules and protest committee.

Don Lloyd received his service award from Commissioner George Sykes.

Lloyd has served as a baseball, basketball, softball and volleyball manager, and also served on the softball rules and protest committee. He has been involved in park district programs for the past ten years.

The banquet's theme, "Parade of Champions," was of special significance to the estimated 97 teams of four sports and individuals in 14 different tennis categories who were honored for their successful endeavors throughout the year.

Historical publications available from Price

To assist area residents in celebrating the Bicentennial Year, Cong. Melvin Price (Dem., 23rd Ill.) has announced the availability of a number of historical publications and materials from his office.

The publications "How Our Laws Are Made" and the U.S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence may be obtained from Rep. Price as well as a limited supply of the 1976 Bicentennial Calendar produced by the Capital Historical Society. Additionally, the college and high school debate topic publications for the year will be sent to interested students. This year's topics are: "Resolved: That the Federal Government should adopt a comprehensive program to control land use" (college) and "Resolved: That the development and allocation of scarce world resources should be controlled by an international organization" (high school).

All publications are complimentary and may be obtained by writing to Congressman Melvin Price, 2468 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Cong. Price also advised students interested in obtaining summer jobs with the federal government that information on how to apply for positions with the Civil Service Commission may be obtained from his office. A special fact sheet on employment with the Forest Service is also available, and Cong. Price reminds students that the Forest Service applications will be accepted by the Department of Agriculture only between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15, 1976.

Cong. Price announced the publication by the Department of Agriculture of "The Food Stamp Program," a 16-page booklet designed to spread understanding of the national food stamp program.

The booklet outlines current eligibility requirements for food stamp applicants and answers frequently asked questions concerning purchasing, administration and use of food stamps. Related issues such as meals-on-wheels, fair hearings for applicants and recipients and disaster situations are also explained.

"Many people in this country do not understand the food stamp program, and how it can assist their families in these times of inflation," Cong. Price said. "Therefore, I am making this booklet available to all area residents who are interested in how this program operates, and whether they are eligible for the program's benefits."

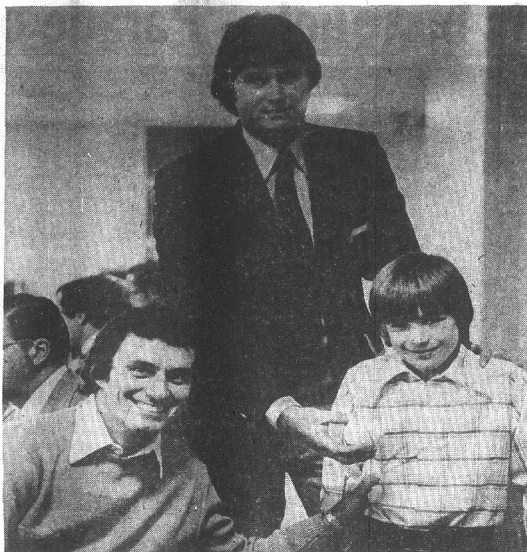

Copies may be obtained by writing the Congressman at: 2468 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Thanksgiving services at 2 churches Sunday

The Rev. Michael Smith, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Madison, will be the guest pastor at the Thanksgiving worship service at 7 p.m. Sunday at the First United Presbyterian Church, 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue.

Host pastor, the Rev. David Maxton, will serve as liturgist and special music will be provided by the adult choirs of the First Presbyterian Church and Niedringhaus United Methodist Church and the Handbell Choir of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ.

Another Thanksgiving service also to be conducted at 7 p.m. Sunday will be at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, with the host minister, the Rev. V. Dennis Rutledge, serving as liturgist.

Father Kenneth Becker, assistant pastor of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, will present the sermon.

Choirs at this service will be from Central Christian Church, Hope Lutheran, St. Elizabeth and St. John United Church of Christ.

Both programs and services are sponsored by the Quad-Cities Ministerial Association, and all offerings at the two churches will be donated to the Mobile Meals program to help implement the cost of the community-wide project.

The Mobile Meals program is conducted by Protestant Welfare Association and Catholic Charities. Meals are delivered each noon, Monday through Friday, to shut-ins of the community at a cost of $1.15 each.

At a time when global hunger is being brought to the attention of all people, Mobile Meals is one local opportunity to help those who live alone and are unable to prepare a full course hot meal for themselves, officers of the Ministerial Association said.

If recipients cannot afford the cost, the funds donated by area residents and organizations still will provide the meal for them, they added.

All meals are prepared in the kitchen at St. Elizabeth Hospital according to the diet requirements of the individual. Delivery of the meals is made by volunteers of church organizations and civic clubs.

Both worship services Sunday will be open to the public. Those attending are asked to bring canned goods for community Christmas baskets, distribution of which will be co-ordinated through lists from Protestant Welfare Association, Catholic Charities and the Salvation Army.

Hints on thawing turkey

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension
Adviser-Home Economics

Chances are that you'll purchase a frozen turkey for your Thanksgiving dinner, since most turkeys are sold this way.

Thawing the bird can present a problem because harmful bacteria grow rapidly in a turkey that is improperly prepared for the oven.

For frozen, unstuffed turkeys, you have three thawing methods to choose from. Use the one that's most convenient for you.

Defrost the turkey on a tray in the refrigerator in its original wrappings. Allow 24 hours for each five pounds of turkey.

When the bird is pliable, take off the wrapping, remove the giblets and neck, cover with a damp towel and refrigerate until ready to roast.

Or you might prefer to thaw the bird in cold water for six to eight hours without opening the plastic bag. Change the water frequently or place the turkey under a running tap. Never use warm or hot water. When the turkey becomes pliable, remove the plastic bag and proceed as explained before.

To thaw by the third method, leave the turkey in its original wrappings, wrap with newspaper, place in a heavy brown paper bag, seal and leave at room temperature.

The newspaper and bag insulate the turkey so that it will thaw uniformly. Allow 16 hours thawing time for a 20 to 25 pound turkey and 12 hours for an 8 to 12 pound bird.

Remember these three precautions to insure a happy Thanksgiving at your house:

—Always refrigerate or completely cook the turkey immediately after thawing it. —Never stuff your thawed turkey until just before roasting.

—Don't thaw a commercially stuffed frozen turkey before cooking.

Microorganisms that cause food poisoning only need moisture, food and warmth to multiply.

GC Elkettes plan holiday parties

Christmas party plans were made last week by members of the Granite City Elkettes, who met at Elks Lodge 1063. Forty were in attendance.

Mrs. Kathryn Pomeroy, president, was in charge of the business session, and Chaplain Julie Barnes offered prayer to open and conclude the meeting.

The yuletide party was set for Tuesday, Dec. 2, in the rathskeller at the lodge. Surprise entertainment and dinner are being arranged, it was announced.

Reservations for the Christmas party were requested by Monday, with Thursday, Nov. 27, established as the deadline date. Those planning to attend were asked to contact Mrs. Theresa Harding or Mrs. Helen Schmeisser.

Mrs. Marian Mertz, membership chairman, reported a total of 157 members now is listed on the club roster. In another report, Mrs. Schmeisser said 160 adults and 20 children were served at a recent spaghetti dinner.

Compulsory amendments to the bylaws were reviewed by trustees of Lodge 1063. To comply with the necessary revisions, Mrs. Pomeroy appointed Mrs. Betty McInty as chairman of a bylaws committee, consisting also of Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Schmeisser. Named by the president to arrange a Thanksgiving D'oeuvre Dance were Mesdames Marcia Bueger, chairman, and Delores Yates, Bonnie Watson, Bernice Grimm and Pat Hancock.

Mrs. Ruth Bischoff, of Vesta Campbell, co-chairman of a diamond ring project, reminded members that receipts and funds must be returned by Dec. 2.

Mrs. Mildred Fehling and Mrs. Hulda Davis, hostesses, served a dessert course to 40 members. Mrs. Dean Grant was the evening's award winner.

Nature Trail topic of club

Mrs. Fred Orr entertained the Cloverview Garden Club in her home, 2430 Lynch Ave., and gave a report on a meeting she attended concerning the Madison County Nature Bicycle Trail project.

To date, she said, clearing and planting has been accomplished with a rustic redwood entrance erected at the site. A sign is now being made and garden clubs in the Granite City area are donating their time and funds towards the project.

Vice-president Mrs. B. C. O'Neill was in charge of the business session in the absence of Mrs. Richard Branding, president. The club collect was given by Mrs. George Knapp and the pledge was led by Mrs. Kenneth Brokaw.

A flower arrangement using a Thanksgiving theme, "Let's Talk Turkey," was made by Mrs. William Brandley and presented to the Colonial Haven Nursing Home, it was announced.

A study on gourds was given by Mrs. Brokaw, taken from the Ortho guide book "All about Vegetables." She discussed the difference between edible and ornamental gourds and explained the crossing of species can produce different forms for the following year. She showed a display from her own garden.

Mr. John Jenkins presented the program in keeping with the club's study on vegetables, entitled "The Salad Bowl." She gave a brief resume on vegetables that can be used in salads.

Mrs. Harold McCauley announced a Christmas party will be held at Charlie's Restaurant Dec. 9 at 12:30 p.m. There will be a gift exchange.

A crystal Bicentennial compote created and designed by special commission of the National Council of State Garden Clubs was on display. On it are etched cameo features of Washington, Jefferson, Adams and Franklin, called the Disciples of Democracy. The National Council is arranging for every state garden club president to present one of the distinctive compotes to her state governor to be placed on permanent display in the Governor's Mansion.

Present also at the meeting were Mrs. Charles Gandoria, Joseph Ochon and a guest, Mrs. Max Forbes.

10th arson case in Delmar area

A wooden shed belonging to Carl Clark, located in the rear of his residence at 1718 Delmar Ave., was set on fire at 8:40 p.m. Friday, according to Granite City Fire Chief Donald Parente.

"We are adding this one to the list of fires being investigated in that general area," Parente said.

The shed was valued at $25. Firemen were at the scene 20 minutes.

A call to the 900 block of Sheridan Avenue at 1:50 p.m. Saturday for a power line down. Firemen secured the area until an Illinois Power Co. repair crew arrived.

At 8:10 p.m. Saturday, firemen were called to an auto fire at 20th Street and Ohio Avenue. A $50 loss, caused by the short in a battery wire, was done to the auto of Linda Ward, 2121 Ohio Ave. Firemen were at the scene 10 minutes as the fire was out upon their arrival.

The 1966 Chevrolet belonging to Judd Pascher, 3015 Nameoki Drive, with a value estimated at $500, was destroyed. A cigarette in the car seat is believed to have started the fire. Firemen were at the scene 30 minutes.

No damage was reported as firemen answered a 7:15 p.m. call Sunday near the tennis courts at Wilson Park where leaves were burning.

Change in remodeling architects

Selection of Lee Potter Smith Associates, Carbondale, to provide architectural services in connection with remodeling of four core buildings on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, was approved Thursday by the SIUE Board of Trustees.

A resolution adopted by the board concurs with the selection of the architects by the Illinois Capital Development Board, which will administer the remodeling project in fiscal 1976.

The firm of Thompson Associates, Troy, was initially considered for the project but the Capital Development Board recommended an alternate firm because Thompson Associates presently is active as design consultant for other capital projects at the SIUE School of Dental Medicine. The change was acceptable to both Thompson Associates and university officials.

The legislature appropriated funds to remodel four buildings in the academic core because various instructional units will relocate in new quarters when two new classroom buildings become operational next year.

CUB SCOUTS VISIT

Den 2 of Cub Pack 7, sponsored by St. Joseph Church, visited Cahokia Mounds Museum this weekend in conjunction with the November theme "Indian Festival."

After touring the museum and seeing the exhibits the boys hiked the large mound and then went through the straw huts and climbed to the lookout of the stockade.

Later, they were treated to lunch at McDonalds. Those attending were Tom Bunte, Robbie Favier, Joe DeShon and Mrs. Rosalie Bunte, leader.

Farmland value clinic Dec. 2

By RON CORNWELL
Madison County Farm Adviser

We receive a number of inquiries each year on what affects farmland values. To help answer many of these questions, the Agriculture Extension Council Farm Management Committee headed by Mel Highlander, St. Jacob Township, has planned a farmland value clinic.

The clinic will be held Tuesday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau auditorium, 50 Hillsboro St., Edwardsville. Franklin Reiss, University of Illinois Extension farm management and tenancy specialist, will be the speaker on the program. Reiss is a native of Freeburg, Ill. and has been on the U of I staff since 1940.

One of the main questions that Madison County farmers have is "when is a good time to buy farmland?" Reiss will discuss this question in detail.

Other topics he will discuss include: "What is Farmland Worth," "Will Land Pay For Itself," "Is it Cheaper to Rent or Buy Farmland," "What Are the Trends in the Farmland Market" and "How Do You Determine a Realistic Value in Transferring Land Within the Family."

Farmland in Madison County has been increasing in value for the past several years. I think it is to the advantage of every farmer to understand the factors that affect the farmland market.

The farmland value clinic is a part of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service program in Madison County.

The superior farming seminar program originally held in Illinois this past year, Illinois was the first state Extension service to try this type program and a survey of the participants indicates it was highly successful.

Superior farming seminars are being offered this year in two areas. One seminar area is swine production and management and the second area covers business management, crop production and vegetable production. The swine seminar will be Feb. 24, at the Champaign Ramada Inn.

Convention Center. The crop and vegetable production seminar will be March 1-3.

The superior farming seminar is geared to the problems of the top farmer. Cost to enroll in the seminar is $25. To obtain enrollment forms with details, interested persons should contact the Agriculture Extension office in Edwardsville (656-7200).

As of October 26, 1976, all tractors manufactured and used by farm employees must have roll-over protective structures (ROPS).

This is one of six agricultural standards under the 1970 Occupational Health and Safety Act.

The standard also requires that farmers train their employees in safe tractor operations and provide the following safety instructions:

—Securely fasten seat belt if the tractor has a ROPS structure. The seat belt is intended to hold you within the ROPS if an accident occurs. But don't wear a seatbelt if the tractor is not equipped with a ROPS.

—Where possible, avoid operating the tractor near ditches, embankments and steep slopes.

—Reduce speed when turning or crossing slopes and when operating on rough, slick, or muddy surfaces. Decrease speed before making any turns.

If tractor speed is increased while turning, the danger of upsetting is also increased.

—Stay off slopes that are too steep for safe operation. A tractor's stability is greatly reduced on steep slopes. To increase the stability, set the wheels at the widest setting suitable for the job. If using mounted equipment, keep it on the uphill side of the tractor.

—Watch where you are going—especially at row ends, on roads, and around trees.

—Slow down when coming to row ends. Be alert for fenceposts and make as wide a turn as possible. Apply a single brake in the direction of the turn, but do this only at slow speeds. Quick, short, brake-assisted turns can cause upsets.

Staicoff new patrolman

Michael Staicoff, a dispatcher for the Ponton Beach Police Department, was promoted to the rank of probationary patrolman, effective today, by action of the Ponton Beach Village Board Friday night.

Staicoff was employed by the Village under the Madison County Manpower Grant which will continue to pay his salary in his new position. The board hired him for a period of six months, after which the position will be reviewed.

Staicoff replaces Donald Patrick, who resigned to take a position with Coordinated Youth Services in Ponton Beach.

The board also voted to apply to the Manpower office for a new dispatcher to fill Staicoff's vacancy.

After lengthy discussion, the board denied a special use permit for a mobile home for Maxie and Benjamin Stamps, 4135 North Drive. The village's zoning board had recommended the permit be denied, requiring five votes from the village board to override the zoning board's decision. The auditors voted 3-3 on a motion to override.

A permit was granted for Edgar Thomas to place a mobile home at 4124 Breckenridge Lane, which was endorsed by the zoning board.

HURT ON NAMEOKI

Edward Paschedag, 23, of 65 Margaret St., Mitchell, was injured when his car, stopped on Nameoki Road to turn left at East 27th Street, was reported struck from behind by the auto of Jack Palmer, 2564 North St., during the weekend. Paschedag was examined at St. Elizabeth Hospital for minor injuries and was released.

Delegate selection uncertainties complicate Stevenson candidacy

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record

Washington Bureau
Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, a baffling amalgam of politician and intellectual, of pragmatist and idealist, frustrates Illinois Democrats who are pressing him for a reconsideration of his non-candidacy for the Presidential nomination.

It is clear on Capitol Hill in background conversations—where they talk freely if they are not named—that Democrats want Stevenson to fish or cut bait.

From such disparate camps as Mayor Richard Daley's, the nominal followers of Gov. Daniel Walker, and independents—as typified by the Rev. James Wall, state committeeman from DuPage County—come urgings for Stevenson to declare himself and head their particular delegation.

It is a Stevenson trait to agonize. Right now, he worries if he is really equipped for the Presidency.

Yet, he sees no one in sight among the gaggle or aspirants who fires his enthusiasm. He concedes that he has no "burning" desire to be in the White House and would prefer simply to be a "good senator."

Then there's the matter of the Illinois delegate selection process, if it can be called that. It's really a shambles because the legislature deadlocked on implementing one of the party's apportionment formulas.

The caucus route which Bill Singer's insurgents took against Daley last time, however, has been held open by the Supreme Court.

Stevenson has only a few days to sort out his thoughts on all this. He has promised to end the agony for both himself and the party with some sort of an announcement on his position as a non-candidate.

Ad doesn't have much time to declare himself," says a decidedly independent Democrat who'd like to line up behind him. Others like him are coming to their own decisions. Whatever he wants to decide is okay. But I'm moving on my own.

Source close to Mayor Daley admit that the organization awaits Stevenson's decision and that the practical result of the hiatus is to suspend the party on tenterhooks.

Daley has the option of "another favorite son," or of "going uncommitted."

It was implied that the mayor might have to exercise an option: Some here are ready to believe Stevenson means it when he says he is not eager to run, and that he would prefer to see an acceptable candidate emerge.

If he does run, others see erstwhile Walker loyalists in the legislature eager to muster with any delegation headed by the Stevenson name.

They also say that Walker is anathema to the homeless liberals, progressives or independents, but they would be comfortable with Stevenson, if he is not a "stalking horse" for Daley.

Although some of Stevenson's friends have told him Illinois could be the keystone of a campaign, the legislature handed him an inoperable when it left the delegation selection process up in the air. This explains in part Stevenson's silence and his indecision.

"It's difficult to declare your intention in Illinois when you don't even know what the delegation-selection process is," insists one close observer. The Byzantine politics of Illinois are difficult enough to fathom, but the delegation chaos created by the legislature adds a bizarre touch.

Stevenson's forces have "marched up and down that hill" until they are exhausted, and he is still left with a tough decision.

Alternate energy sources object of hearing here

"This is your forum on energy," State Rep. Adeline J. Geo-Karis, chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, commented as she opened a hearing on the energy topic Thursday in the City Hall of Granite City.

The chairman emphasized the committee is mandated to seek alternate ways to utilize high-sulfur Illinois coal as a practical fuel source, especially in Illinois.

She also sought comments from businessmen and manufacturers on the effects Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and environmental concerns are having on the ability of business to succeed in the state.

Few of the more than 20 business representatives at the hearing offered statements, but at the prodding of Rep. Geo-Karis, most offered brief sentences supporting the exploration of alternate fuel sources, including Illinois coal. The first speaker was William E. Parker, a business agent for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 640, Alton, who suggested a state-wide building code which would, among other things, assure that new homes are well insulated and help conserve heating fuels.

He warned against allowing environmental groups to control government policy to the point where progress is stopped. He cited the Alton Locks and Dam replacement project as one which has been stopped, primarily due to environmentalists.

State Rep. Joseph Lucco of Edwardsville, a member of the energy committee, said he has had a great deal of correspondence from the Sierra Club, one of those whose lawsuit is delaying the Alton Dam replacement, and said he is aware of the danger of allowing environmental concerns halt progress.

He said environmental controls have had an adverse effect on the economy of Southern Illinois as the use of the high-sulfur Illinois coal is not acceptable for most uses.

"I see a great deal of coal from other states shipped through the Tri-City Regional Port and I just can't see why we can't use Illinois coal, which is one-sixth of the nation's coal reserve," Lucco commented. Much of the discussion centered on a pilot program for which Illinois Power Co. is

ENERGY RESOURCES hearing in Granite City's City Hall Thursday in which alternate forms of energy to those in short supply were discussed, including use of Illinois high-sulfur coal and solar energy. From left are: Mayor William Magurany of Wood River; State Rep. Joe Lucco of this district, a member of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission; State Rep. Adeline J. Geo-Karis, chairman of the commission; State Sen. John Knuppel, vice-chairman, and Donald G. Handy, staff administrator for the commission.

He suggested the commission should initiate steps to encourage that more state buildings, state university classrooms and local schools use solar heat, rather than conventional heating fuels.

He said solar heat has been proved practical and several houses already are constructed and others are being built which are heated with energy from the sun.

Lucco said special legislation may be required to assure that a neighbor can not allow a tree to grow tall enough to block the sun's rays to a solar energy collector for a home.

"We need a study on the legal implications of 'solar right,' the right and ability to use solar energy," Lucco noted.

But he also suggested the state prepare and distribute to architects, engineers and others, precise designs and information pertinent to the use of solar energy in buildings.

He also said the National Bureau of Standards, under a grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has started a study to remove ineffective solar energy systems from the market and to set standards for units which may be sold to the public.

Others who spoke at the hearing were State Sen. John Knuppel of Peoria, vice-chairman of the commission; Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City; William Magurany, mayor of Wood River, and Associate Judge Horace Calvo of Granite City, a former state representative.

The chairman noted that all of the 12 hearings held throughout the state were tape recorded and transcripts will be prepared and distributed to each member of the commission.

The commission has an 18-member board, she noted, which includes five state representatives, five state senators and eight members of the public.

A Long Distance phone call

and only 40¢ on the weekend before 5 p.m. Sunday.

Surprising how you can cut the cost of Long Distance outside of Illinois by dialing direct during bargain calling times. For instance, you save more than one-third when you call after 5 p.m. on weekdays. And more than one-half on the weekend before 5 p.m. Sunday. Now isn't that worth waiting for?

Discounts apply to total charges of Direct-Dial calls, but only to additional minute charges on Operator-assisted calls. Direct-Dial rates do not apply to coin, hotel-guest, hospital patient, credit card, collect or person-to-person calls, or to calls charged to another number, because an Operator must assist on such calls. They do apply on calls placed with an Operator from a residence or business phone where Direct-Dial facilities are not available.

College Fair in St. Louis

Representatives from colleges, trade and technical schools, universities and other post-secondary institutions located in all sections of the United States will offer admissions and financial aid information to students and parents at the St. Louis National College Fair, scheduled Friday and Saturday at Stouffiers Riverfront Towers, St. Louis.

Sessions will be held Friday from 1:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Many local high school students are expected to take advantage of the college fair program.

The fair is free to the public and is sponsored by the National Association of College Admissions Counselors, a nonprofit organization representing over 1,800 schools and colleges.

Everyone is invited to attend, especially high school students and graduates, veterans and servicemen, graduates of two-year colleges, college transfer students, parents of students and adults wishing to further their education.

Fair participants will receive a complimentary National College Fair Directory which provides, for each institution represented at the fair, basic information such as enrollment figures, required tests, application deadlines and deposits, college costs and principal majors.

Over 1,400 different institutions and over 175,000 students and parents participated in the 17 fairs sponsored by NACAC in 1974 and spring, 1975. For the St. Louis National College Fair it is estimated that there will be 150 booths manned by institutional representatives and that 15,000 students and parents will attend.

EOC winterization program

Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission is conducting a winterization program designed to maximize energy-saving benefits for low-income families with particular emphasis on handicapped persons, senior citizens and families with children under 5 years of age who meet the poverty income level guidelines set forth by Community Services Administration. Funds for the project are provided by a grant of $50,000 from Community Services Administration and $5,000 from the Community Development office of Madison County.

Winterization of the home may include, insulation of attics and provide vents, covering windows with plastic, weather stripping and caulking. It is estimated that approximately 225 homes throughout Madison County can be winterized at approximately $200 average cost per home.

The project will combine efforts of Madison County EOC and Madison-St. Clair Counties Urban League outreach workers to identify potentially eligible homes and process evaluation forms on each home. Work crews will be supervised by a representative from Carpenters Local 633.

Final approval for the work to be accomplished on each home will be made by the Emergency Energy Conservation Advisory Committee which is made up of representatives of the agencies involved and citizens of various communities in Madison County.

More information may be obtained by contacting Madison County EOC Neighborhood Service Centers and Madison-St. Clair Counties Urban League offices in Madison and Alton.

Survey area restaurants

In an effort to determine how many people are employed in the restaurant industry locally, the Greater Granite City Restaurant Association has mailed questionnaires to restaurants in the area.

A Charles Hester, president of the GGCRA said, "I think our local association could better serve the people working in the restaurant area and the general public if we knew how large we really are. Unlike most industries, ours is small and physically separated; but we all have one aim in mind and that is serving the people of the area better."

The questionnaire simply asks for the name and address of the restaurant, the number of employees and an approximate annual dollar volume of business done by each restaurant.

Pellets shot at Madison girl, 15

Darlene Reed, 15, of 133 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital after a 15-year-old boy allegedly shot her with an air rifle gun while she was walking through Grenzer Homes at 5:45 p.m. Friday.

She said a boy approached her, showed the gun and said, "If you don't start running by the time I count three, I will shoot you," she related.

The girl said she refused to run and he shot her in the back. She was treated at the hospital for a puncture wound to the lower back, had x-rays taken and was released.

IST PETER 4-7... BUT THE END OF ALL THINGS IS AT HAND. BE YE THEREFORE SOBER, AND WATCH UNTO PRAYER.

Peter knew it in his day, and he believed it. Many people know the end is near today, but they don't believe it. Peter instructs us to be SOBER and to WATCH UNTO PRAYER.

Most of my observations show that today more and more people are lovers of pleasure, seeking for any diversion from reality.

America must realize that prayer to God with a sober mind is the only solution for our nation.

By praying we conform to God's standards for our lives, we become like Him in all things.

The change for our Nations and the rest of the world must start with the individual. It could start with you, Today.

Flu vaccine distributed

Thousands of aging Illinois citizens will have a little more to give thanks for this Thanksgiving as the Illinois Department of Public Health has shipped more than 65,000 doses of influenza vaccine throughout the state for distribution to aging and chronically ill persons.

Nearly 150 nursing homes and local health departments have received shipments of the vaccine which includes immunizing agents against Port Chalmers, Scotland and Hong Kong flu.

According to Dr. Joyce Lashof, state health department director, the vaccine will help protect "high-risk" groups from influenza, a disease which can cause serious complications to those who are over 65 years of age, or who suffer from chronic illness such as heart disease, diabetes or diseases affecting the lung or kidney.

Dr. Lashof pointed out that the 65,000 doses of vaccine have been distributed "where they will most effectively prevent complications of influenza in those who are at highest risk."

She also advised that flu shots are not necessary for persons who are under 65 and in good health. "The disease in these persons is self-limiting and serious complications are infrequent," she explained. Dr. Lashof asked that available supplies of vaccine should be administered to "high-risk" individuals only.

State health officials anticipate the possibility of any of several types of flu in Illinois this winter, including Port Chalmers, Scotland and Hong Kong. The first two are Type A strains, while Hong Kong is a Type B influenza.

Dr. Lashof emphasized that the only "cure" for all strains is bed rest; aspirin, to relieve aches and pains; and plenty of fluids. "Although antibiotics are ineffective against the influenza virus," she said, "they may be of use in treating secondary infections that may occasionally accompany influenza infections."

The Illinois Department of Public Health's flu surveillance system will also be in operation again this year. The flu surveillance program is a system of gathering weekly data on flu cases from certain sampling areas such as school and industrial absenteeism, which aids in estimating the extent of the problem caused by influenza outbreaks.

Group fears state may force school property tax hike

Commentary by Special Task Force for Full Funding of Illinois Schools — Governor Daniel Walker's education vetoes badly damaged reforms seeking new and better ways of financing Illinois public schools.

The aim of such reforms is to equalize educational opportunities for all school children, whether in an affluent school district or a poor one. The basic change in nationwide school support is being made by moving from local property taxes as the major source of revenue and relying more on funds raised and distributed on a statewide basis.

The state has a right to tax to maintain a system of public schools. It finds this right in its obligation to nurture intelligent citizens and to promote the social order and peace of society.

A state commonly expresses its educational financing policy through legislation enacted by its legislature. These concepts were affirmed by the 1970 Illinois Constitution which gives the state primary responsibility.

Both the Illinois state lottery and Illinois state income tax were passed on the avowed premise that these tax funds would help our children's educational needs, thus alleviating part of the burden on real estate taxpayers in paying for the state's obligation.

The task force has suggested no tax increase but an adjustment of less than one per cent of the governor's budget for children's education. If legislators on a bipartisan basis exercise their leadership and address themselves to making this adjustment in a $10 billion budget, everyone's needs can be met.

Legislators can be fiscally responsible and not have to consider any tax increase. And the needs of our children can be met.

If the state does not assume its responsibility, with inflationary costs, the governor's vetoes could cause schools to be wrongfully funded in the future by increased real estate taxes, including suburbia and Downstate.

Big and diverse recreation program a Quad-City asset

One of the assets that sets this community apart from others—the Granite City Park District recreation program—has been in the spotlight during mid-November.

A weekend visit to the recreation center in Wilson Park found hundreds of ice skaters enjoying one of the many two-and-a-half-hour rink sessions, followed in the late evening by ice hockey competition that involves not only Granite City through age 19 but also teams from Belleville, O'Fallon, Wood River, Alton and Collinsville.

This week, the 16th annual sports award banquet attracted over 500 persons as 1975 park champions were honored in softball, basketball, tennis, flag football and baseball. Max Flax was accorded special honors, and other celebrities speaking included Al Hrabosky, Steve Carlton, Rick Wise, Jim Ottis and Gene Gieselmann.

The park ice rink visit and the award dinner covered only two days of the recreation program, which continues throughout the year and almost around-the-clock. Its scope and quality, as noted, set this community apart—and in a highly positive and constructive way.

Lake park is progressing rapidly—after four decades

Highways and park projects are said to bring to reality, and this is apparent when reviewing the progress of the Horseshoe Lake State Park in Madison County.

Actively discussed as long ago as the 1930s, the decade was in the news this week with announcement that another 598 acres have been acquired by the Illinois Conservation Department.

Acquisitions now total 1,800 acres and it is planned to purchase an additional 1,400 acres by June 1976, the department says, enabling private use to begin in the foreseeable future.

The lake facilities, wildlife refuge and related aspects of the new park can enable the horseshoe-shaped site to grow in both usefulness and attractiveness.

It has been a long wait, a seemingly unending quest, but the conclusion appears likely to be a happy one.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

You, too can be a politico

By KEN WATSON
SPRINGFIELD — Do you want to serve in the Illinois legislature?

If so, a good place to start in achieving that goal is at the city hall or courthouse.

Of the 238 members who have served in the Illinois 79th Illinois General Assembly, a total of 45 previously has held elective office at the city, county or township level, and three have been elected to school boards in their home communities.

The legislature includes five members who previously served as mayors or village presidents and five who were chairmen of the boards of their respective counties.

The former mayors or village presidents are Sen. Howard R. Mohr of Forest Park, an assistant minority leader; Rep. Edward E. Blumenthal, former village president of Schiller Park; Rep. William F. Mahar, former trustee and village president of Homewood; Rep. Joseph B. Ebbesen, former mayor of DeKalb, and Sen. Esther Saperstein, founder and first president of the village of Hope.

In an exception to the rule, Saperstein has gone full circle on the city hall to Statehouse route. Earlier this year she resigned her Senate seat following election to the Chicago city council. Both jobs pay the same, $17,500 a year.

The five former county board chairmen now in the legislature are Rep. A. T. McMaster of Onondaga, who served four years as a township tax assessor prior to four years as head of the Knox county board; Sen. Karl Berning of Deerfield, who first won political office as a constable before advancing to chairman of the Lake county board; Harlan Rigney of Red Oak in Stephenson county; Rep. Allan L. "Al"

Schoeberlein, who was an alderman for 18 years before becoming a member and later chairman of the Kane county board, and Sen. John David of Springfield, Sangamon county.

Strangely, perhaps, there is no one in the Illinois legislature currently serving in the legislature, Sen. Charles Chew is proud of his city service and in his official biography in the Illinois Blue Book, he describes himself as "an expert in city and state government."

There is no question that experience in local government at any level is of great help to a lawmaker. Despite the broad home rule powers granted local governments under the new Illinois Constitution of 1970, the legislature still deals with a huge volume of bills affecting them.

The Illinois Municipal League, which keeps tabs on all legislation affecting cities, relies to a significant extent on ex-mayors and city council members to protect the interests of cities.

Election to any local office provides an aspiring politician with the name recognition that can lead to election to the legislature. Important, of course, is the obligation of doing a good job in the local office. If so, the officeholder retains a sufficient degree of popularity that the local voters are inclined to advance him to Springfield to serve their cause in the legislature.

Once in the legislature, odds generally favor the reelection of an incumbent. Any legislator of better than average ability usually can count on a lengthy tenure in the General Assembly.

Experience on a city council or county board is not the only local government springboard to the legislature. A variety of local positions are represented in the legislative halls.

Rep. Roland F. Tipson of Taylorville was state's attorney of Christian county for six years before being elected to the House. Sen. John B. Roe of Rochelle was once state's attorney of Ogle county.

Rep. Adeline Jay Geor-Karis of Zion began her march to the Statehouse with election as a justice of the peace. Rep. Eugene S. Chapman of Arlington Heights first won election as a member of the board of education.

It is clear after the first ballot that Adlai cannot make it—or if he does not become a candidate—then my vote will go to Hubert Humphrey combines ability, compassion, common sense and three other factors which I believe are extremely important to the nation right now.

First, maturity that almost three decades on the national scene have given him, yet he is only one year older than Senator Henry Jackson. Humphrey's experiences have been broad enough so that he is not likely to lead the nation astray.

Second, an enthusiasm and positive spirit that this nation needs.

Third, as broad a spectrum of support within the Democratic Party and within the nation as anyone available. Right now this nation yearns for leadership, and Humphrey can provide it. He knows how to get a job done.

The Minnesota senator has said he will not become a candidate, but if the convention chooses him, he will serve. We should call on him to do just that.

Among the declared candidates, I join in that assessment.

My preference is Congressman Morris Udall, for whom I have great respect. The ideal ticket—as far as I am concerned—would be Humphrey for President and Udall for Vice President. And then Adlai Stevenson selected by the new President as the Secretary of State.

Contrary to the expectations of many that the winner of the convention will emerge from the primaries, I believe that is not probable, given the number of candidates and the states they are likely to carry.

That means a convention searching for a candidate, not a candidate handed to the convention.

More and more I sense among my colleagues in Congress from people as widely scattered as Senator George McGovern from South Dakota to the more conservative southern Democrats—the growing feeling that Hubert Humphrey is the man the nation needs in 1976.

I join in that assessment.

Public praised for United success

To the Editor:

The third successful year in a row of the United Way proves again that people do care.

The success of such a campaign starts with the concerned, civic-minded leaders who spearhead the task, namely the campaign chairman and each division chairman.

These are the people who are entrusted with a job that requires much planning, hard work and persistence.

Even though each chairman has a personal plaque or award, I believe each man and woman who devoted time and effort to helping our community, and those in need will also receive a special place in the heart of each of us.

Thank you, campaign committee and John Q. Public, for being ready when the call came and putting the United Way over the top.

Long planning for airport

Remarks this month to the International Air Transportation Conference of the American Society of Civil Engineers by Arven H. Saunders, executive director, St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority:

The St. Louis airport (Columbia-Waterloo) is the first all-new airport started since enactment of the National Environmental Policies Act of 1969, Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970 and Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970.

This new legislation has made it more difficult to build new airports. Inflation and the worst recession since World War II have also contributed to the difficulties.

Planning a new major airport for the St. Louis region, to be built on an 18,500-acre site close to Downtown St. Louis near Columbia and Waterloo, Ill., requires all the best skills available from many disciplines—architects, engineers, planners, environmental experts, financial advisers and many others.

The Authority has spent the last five years working to qualify the site under federal guidelines for environmental protection, and the approval procedure outlined in the three laws.

The need for the new airport and the technical case to justify it have never been seriously challenged; the debate has centered upon purely provincial grounds.

Opponents of the new airport are committed to keeping an airport development for the St. Louis area within Missouri, which for all practical purposes would mean no new airport. The charter of the Missouri-St. Louis group so states and further charges them with juggling any new airport in Illinois.

Throughout the five-year qualifying process, opponents have employed NEPA and ADAP provisions to cause a delay in the decision on our application, which has been before the federal government since January 1972.

This obstructionism has concentrated upon a policy of first introducing a series of alternate sites in Missouri which, when analyzed, were rejected on technical grounds; and second, introducing an unfortunate series of well-publicized but technically deficient schemes to expand the existing field, Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

Under provisions of the Environmental and Airport Acts, we have been required to examine these plans as serious alternatives to the new airport.

One, the Lambert 2000 Plan, was the centerpiece for a well-publicized referendum campaign held in the Missouri portion of the metropolitan area which, of course, resulted in an overwhelming vote to retain Lambert Field.

Later, when subjected to expert scrutiny, the 2000 Plan quickly fell apart. It was finally dropped from further consideration after the McDonnell Douglas Corp. revealed that perhaps 18,000 jobs would have to be relocated to another city if the 2000 plan were implemented.

Undaunted by this failure, the Missouri opponents next sought federal funding for an airport master plan. After an eight-month attempt to secure federal approval, the secretary of Transportation finally agreed to fund a master plan effort to be completed within six months and to exclude from any master planning the addition of any significant land to the cramped, 1,800-acre Lambert site.

What emerged from this planning process is a document described by the postmaster of St. Louis and a former Missouri congressman as "the strongest document yet for the establishment of a major airport elsewhere.

"Everything in the report is based on conjecture, supposition, hope for the future and inventiveness," he said.

We now have good reason to believe that the present secretary of Transportation will be in a position to make a decision before the end of this year.

He has stated before that he will act on our application as soon as he has all of the facts before him. A final, we hope, Transportation Department sponsored study is due for completion.

We are confident that our application will be decided on its merits, ignoring emotional and political rhetoric, and that the decision will be in favor of a new St. Louis airport at Columbia-Waterloo.

Indeed, the airlines in a recent letter to the deputy secretary of Transportation urged that the Columbia-Waterloo site, at a minimum, be landbanked and thus made available for future development as an air carrier airport.

It is not to be denied that the current interim expansion program at Lambert and has said that any further expansion does not make economic sense to them. Interestingly enough, they are extending their use agreement with the airport operator to 1987, giving them only a 10-year writ of period on the improvements.

The Authority is prepared to begin land acquisition and master planning immediately upon receiving the approval of the secretary of Transportation.

An extensive master plan grant application has been prepared by the Authority's master plan coordinators and is ready for submission.

Views Humphrey as mature, capable

By CONG. PAUL SIMON

THE CHOICE of the Democratic nominee for the Presidency has an importance of much greater significance than any single issue.

I will run as a candidate for delegate to the Democratic convention.

I will list myself on the ballot as uncommitted.

On the first ballot I shall cast a vote for Senator, Adlai E. Stevenson, if he announces his candidacy.

I will do that recognizing that his chances of being selected are not great; but also recognizing that if he should be nominated, he could handle the responsibility, and handle it well. He has been an outstanding senator and in part my first ballot vote will be a tribute to him.

If it is clear after the first ballot that Adlai cannot make it—or if he does not become a candidate—then my vote will go to Hubert Humphrey combines ability, compassion, common sense and three other factors which I believe are extremely important to the nation right now.

First, maturity that almost three decades on the national scene have given him, yet he is only one year older than Senator Henry Jackson. Humphrey's experiences have been broad enough so that he is not likely to lead the nation astray.

Letter

from Washington

by Senator Charles H. Percy

Regulatory process causes costly delay and inflates prices

The need to reform the vast government bureaucracy that regulates American business is at last receiving the attention it deserves in Congress.

The Senate has approved a comprehensive study of government regulation under the auspices of the Government Operations and Commerce Committees. As ranking member of the Government Operations Committee, I have long urged this study and I am most pleased that it will be underway soon.

The study will be more than a mere review of government regulation and its costs to American businesses and consumers. It will provide specific legislative suggestions on how we can revamp the regulatory process that too often stifles business competition and inflates consumer prices.

In some cases, tighter regulation is needed. In others, total deregulation may be the answer. But in all cases the study will probe the frustrating and expensive regulatory processes that are plagued with long delays and often create cozy relationships between regulated industries and the regulators themselves.

The study also will look at the qualifications of those in government who do the regulating to make sure that they have the training and experience to pass judgment on business practices. It also will explore the need to include the public in regulatory decisions. The public has a right to be fully informed of regulatory decisions and to have a right to participate in the formation and execution of such decisions.

Government regulation of business is a costly and pervasive activity. It is estimated that regulation costs the nation's economy and American consumers $30 billion a year. It effects the prices we pay for nearly every consumer product and service.

In addition, government regulation is a constant presence in the lives of millions of business executives and managers. It generates mountains of paperwork. Individuals and organizations are often forced to meet outrageous demands that probe into the most minute details of business conduct.

At the same time, we must remember that sensible government regulation can serve us well. For example, unregulated competition can sometimes force prices up and prevent the creation of new businesses. Regulation also serves as a guardian for consumers to help assure the safety of the food we eat, the cars we drive and the products we use in our homes.

A primary concern in the Senate study should be the claims of the American business community. Business has a valid argument when it says that over-regulation is a non-productive expense that often causes higher consumer prices.

It should reduce this unnecessary regulation for the benefit of businesses as well as consumers. But business often argues in favor of regulation when it protects them against competition. Clearly the business community cannot have it both ways.

A distinguished panel of experts has been named by the Government Operations Committee to assist in the year-long regulatory reform study. The panel will provide the kind of objective analysis that is crucial to a fair examination of government regulatory practices.

The Federal government has been in the business of regulating American business for nearly a century. Much of that regulation is outdated, clumsy, confusing, counterproductive and costly. The Senate has now embarked on a sensible study of the problem to make government regulation an ally rather than an enemy of both businesses and consumers.

CAPITAL CRUNCH

By

LESTER W. BRANN, JR.
President
Illinois State
Chamber of Commerce

Where will we be in 1980? Will there be jobs for the 7 million more persons the experts tell us will need them by then? Will we have the energy sources we are now struggling to find? And how about the new products that help to make the quality of our lives better?

The key to all of this, oddly enough, isn't just increased wages or more production; it's capital and that is something private business is finding less and less of.

Some estimates say U.S. businesses will need $312 billion per year to build new plants and buy enough equipment to meet the needs of consumers and workers over the next several years.

But right now, these same estimates say the money isn't there and a number of changes will have to be made to provide it.

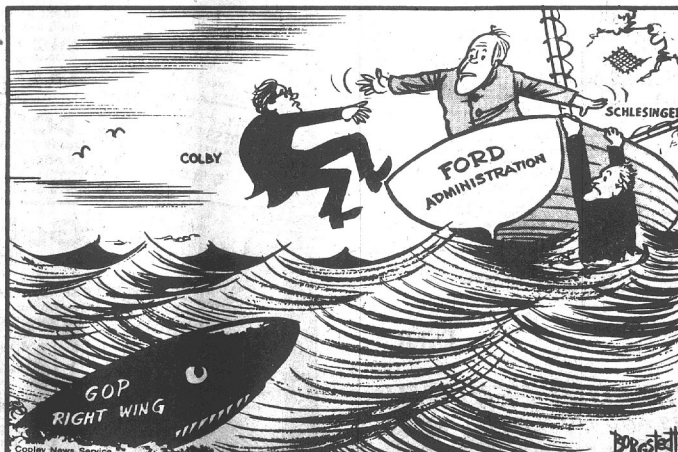

The current capital shortage stems from a number of factors. Corporate profits—one of the major sources of capital—went from 6.8% in 1967 to 3.3% in 1973. The federal government's system of deficit financing puts it in competition with private business to borrow money. And then, there is also a pervasive anti-business mentality which sees profit as something that must be regulated, sometimes to the extent it is non-existent.

But fewer profits and less expansion can only mean problems in the future—not only for businessmen, but for the workers and consumers who rely on them for jobs and products. Change is needed now.

One big stimulus would be tax reform—giving businesses tax incentives to expand and hire more people. More incentives also are needed for middle-income earners to save. This is money that could go into the market and be lent to businesses that now find loans hard to come by.

Finally, we also need a re-education of the American consumer. We have been working under the free enterprise system for a long time, but few consumers really understand how it operates—that business profits invariably lead to more paychecks.

And to keep both profits and jobs coming, we've got a lot of changing to do.

"Sorry, boys—it's every man for himself!"

Fatima Circle plans memorial mass

Our Lady of Fatima Circle 835, Daughters of Isabella, met last week at the Knights of Columbus Hall, with Regent Irma Manning presiding.

Rosalie Johannigmeier gave the opening prayer and members repeated the pledge of allegiance to the flag, which was presented by Martha Kozuszek, banner bearer. Minutes were read by Vera Carey and a financial report was given by Josephine Knezovich.

Sacred Heart Circle 237, Daughters of Isabella, Highland, invited Circle 835 to bring its candidates to a joint long-form's initiation this week it was announced.

Thirty members were present at the November session and welcomed Florence Portell and Bernice Crimmins as new members. Birthday honoree for the current month was Peggy Crnkovich.

A mass honoring all deceased members will take place at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 30, followed with breakfast at the Grand Cafe, Mrs. Manning said.

Mary Ann Bunk, newly-elected scribe, was installed, together with Fran Gruber, trustee and Mrs. Kozuszek, banner bearer. The latter two were unable to attend a joint installation of all circles in the Springfield Diocese held recently at St. Mary's Church, Edwardsville.

Plans were made for a Christmas party at the K. C. Hall at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 4. Priests from all Quad-City churches will be invited and members were asked to provide an exchange gift and one for their sunshine friend.

Early reservations were requested to the 1976 state convention, set May 21 and 22 at the Ramada Inn in Fairview Heights.

Refreshments were served by Catherine Umberhine, Olga Varley, Veronica Wagner, Margaret Walker, Mary Worthen, Josephine Yurko, Mary Yobby and Mary Uherick, chairman.

'Evening With Santa' planned

A "hobby auction," featuring handmade articles such as tape paintings, crocheted items, ceramics, flower arrangements and bakery goods, was held at a meeting of the Madison Junior Service Club at the Madison Recreation Center.

Mrs. Julia Voloski, club president, served as auctioneer. All proceeds will be used for the club's charity fund, she said.

Mrs. Doris Patterson, chairman of the event, served refreshments and prizes after the auction.

Guests attending were Hilda Withaus, Rosemary Paterson, Esther Paterson, Betty Lavelle, Patricia Polley, Rose Hackett, Charlene Roberts, Jackie Johnson and son Billy, Ellen Brokaw, Thelma Chapman, Lillian Brokaw, Cassandra Becerra, Christy Barnhart, Penny Ousley, Dorothy Serwatka, Jo Roberts, Christine Hatfield, Karen Kaminski, Dorothy Hatfield, Anna Holman, Faye Dyer, Shirley Doza, Carla Voloski, Mary Stawar, Charlene Past and Lillian Delps.

Following the auction, a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Voloski. Plans were made to take part in the Quad-City Bicentennial parade, set for July 3.

Members also agreed to send a donation to the Salvation Army's Tree of Lights.

Final arrangements for the annual "Evening With Santa" were reviewed by the co-chairmen, Billy Howarth, Judy Donaldson and Rita Lyberger. The holiday affair will be held Friday, Dec. 19, at the Croatian Home, featuring John Apperson, the magician; DoJo and His Puppets; Burger Chef and Jeff and Santa.

Tickets are now available from club members, costing $1 each. None will be sold at the door, the chairmen announced. Each child must be accompanied by an adult.

A board meeting on Dec. 1 at Mrs. Voloski's home also will be a Christmas dinner and gift exchange, she announced.

Both foreign and home missionaries will be guest speakers at the rally, which begins at noon Saturday when young people of the church will visit His Place, a Christian ministry to the inner city in St. Louis.

At 7 p.m. Saturday, Wayne Anderson from His Place will speak and give a slide presentation.

Kenneth Vogel, a missionary to South Africa, will present a sermon at the 9:30 a.m. Sunday worship service, followed by pledges of church members for 1976. A potluck dinner will be served at noon Sunday. Sunday evening at 7:30, Larry Reynolds, director of the CWBA Christian Children's Home in Florissant, Mo., will detail the program and work at the children's facility.

Last year the church's missionary pledges exceeded $7,700 and partial support is being given to nine foreign and eight home missionaries or evangelistic programs.

Among those supported are Larry Dogget and Howard Crowl in Zaire, Africa; the Korean Evangelistic Association; Sidney Boudreaux in the Philippines; St. Louis Christian College and the Illini Children's Christian Home, the Rev. Kelley reported.

Chapter hears farm program

The November meeting of the Druisilla Andrews Chapter of the DAR was held during the weekend at Charlie's Restaurant with 13 members and three guests present.

Mrs. Ruth McCarty, regent, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Janet Wilson read the President General's message and Miss Ella Ray Smith presented five topics covering National Defense.

Mrs. Georgia Engelle gave a program on "Conservation Gains Through Farm Organizations." She traced the development of the Illinois Agriculture Association which was officially organized on Jan. 26, 1916, in a meeting held at Champaign. The organization was the culmination of county-wide meetings which began as early as 1858 in DeKalb County, with farmers cooperating with each other to accomplish many programs.

Mrs. Engelle stressed that farm organizations always have had four aims in mind—satisfactory roads, proper taxation, improvement of public health and soil conservation.

At the end of the program, the speaker answered questions regarding conservation and projects of the I.A.A.

Mrs. Engelle also discussed a series of articles on the History of Granite City she has authored and which has appeared in the Granite City Press-Record.

Correspondence was read from the local Bicentennial committee inviting the group to participate in the July 3, 1976, Bicentennial Parade.

Guests present, in addition to Mrs. Engelle, were her sisters, Misses Mae and Mildred McCormick from Collinsville. Members attending were Misses Nelle Hart and Mary Candler, Mesdames Margaret Belt, Emma Schoen, Barbara Williams, Ruth Mitchell, Helen Gantcheff, Eva Meier, D. Reva Turner and Marie Froharc.

200 at Benefit ball

In a Bicentennial setting, President Gertrude Luebben welcomed those attending and led the pledge of allegiance in honor of the 200th birthday of the nation at the sixth annual benefit ball sponsored by the Granite City Society for Crippled Children.

Ron Luebben served as master of ceremonies, assisted by Louis Paschoff, past president, Mrs. Fanny Epstein and Bill Luebben.

The 200 guests and members enjoyed a cocktail hour, with dinner at seven. The Four Seasons orchestra furnished music for dancing from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Horace Celvo, recently appointed circuit judge, was congratulated on his appointment and his work as a director in the society. Mr. and Mrs. Luebben were honored on the 30th anniversary of their wedding, with presentation of a cake by Walter Christiansen.

The honored couple were joined in a dance, with the orchestra playing the Anniversary Waltz.

Serving on the committee for the "ball" were Walter Christiansen, Barbara Watz, Fanny Epstein, Glen and Lily Chaboude, Mildred and Jim Talley, Louis Paschoff, Bonnie Lazenby, Evelyn Leepert, Bill Luebben, A. E. (Tony) and Catherine Michel, Gertrude and Ron Luebben.

NEW EAGLE SCOUT John L. Brusatti with his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. (Phyllis) Brusatti, following an Eagle Scout Court of Honor in St. Elizabeth Church Thursday.

John L. Brusatti new Eagle scout

John L. Brusatti, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. (Phyllis) Brusatti, 211 Manley Ave., received the Eagle Scout award in ceremonies at St. Elizabeth Church.

John began the scouting trail in June 1969 and as a Cub Scout in Pack 22, his den leaders were Mrs. Pat Winters, Mrs. Joanne Spahr, and Mrs. Phyllis Steh. In their den he earned his Wolf and Bear badges with gold and silver arrows.

As a Webelos scout with Al Fuller and William Down as his leaders, he earned his activities badges and the Webelos award. He also earned the Parvuli Dei award for Cub Scouts of the Catholic faith.

In May 1972 he joined Boy Scout Troop 5 with Charles Taylor and J. Patrick Busch his scoutmasters.

In his troop he has served as an assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and senior patrol leader. He presently is a member of the Troop 5 leadership corps.

John is a member of the Cahokia Lodge, Order of the Arrow, scouting's national honor camping society.

He has attended Camp Sumner four summers with his troop. In 1973 he attended the National Boy Scout Jamboree West at Farragut, Idaho.

In July 1975 he was presented the Ad Altare Dei award by Bishop O'Connor in Springfield. John is a student at Granite City High School South.

Participating in the Court of Honor were Monsignor Lawrence Mattingly, pastor of St. Elizabeth Church; Dr. Thomas Layloff, chairman of the Uniwah (Quad-Cities) district; Charles Taylor, district vice-chairman; Reginald Mennerick, district council camping chairman; Lavern Larsen, committee chairman of Troop 5; J. Patrick Busch, scoutmaster of Troop 5, and Clyde Mertz of the Elks lodge who presented an "Americanism" award to young Brusatti.

2 dismissed

Two former East St. Louis school officials were dismissed from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville research jobs after the SIU Board of Trustees voted unanimously here Thursday afternoon against ratifying their employment contracts with Project Interface.

Fred Kimbrough was to earn $15,000 yearly and Leonard Johnson $10,000 from the research project, operated jointly by SIUE and the City of East St. Louis.

Both were hired in September; they are among six school district officials convicted of extortion and racketeering. The convictions are being appealed.

Trustee William Norwood, who submitted the motion not to approve their appointments, said he did not believe their jobs and qualifications matched. The project at the East St. Louis SIUE center includes municipal budget projections and master planning.

In an unrelated matter, the SIU board took under study the issue of collective bargaining for faculty members. Competitors are the American Association of University Professors and the Faculty Organization for Collective Bargaining, the latter an Illinois Education Association affiliate.

Pontoon seeks estimates on police car repairs

The Pontoon Beach Village Board agreed at its last meeting to seek prices to repair a police car, rather than selling it when a new police car on order arrives.

Raymond Gaudette, chairman of the board's police committee, recommended the board consider repairing the old police car and using it as a third car for official trips to the Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville and other trips where a squad car is not necessary.

He showed one estimate of $229 to bring the car into a safe condition, including alignment, ball joints and other needed work.

The board requested the police committee to seek other estimates before a decision whether to repair the car is made.

Duane Skinner, chairman of the finance committee, reported the carrier of the village workmen's compensation insurance, has announced it no longer will carry that type of insurance.

Skinner said his committee is having a difficult time finding a carrier who is willing to accept the village's business for workmen's compensation. He added he is continuing to seek a carrier and will report back to the board at its next meeting.

Many firms discontinued the workmen's compensation program when the state increased benefits to workers, but did not allow rates to increase proportionately.

Skinner said he feels the present carrier will continue to cover the village policy until a new carrier can be found.

The board reviewed its 1975-76 fiscal year project priority list for the use of motor fuel tax funds, but decided to reconsider the entire program after Skinner objected to two points.

Although the proposed program was not made public, Skinner said he felt there were problems with weight limits and with rental property for the street department.

An ordinance was passed requiring an annual $25 business license for firms selling glass for windows or mirrors.

Bishop deplors UN racism vote

Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas of the Catholic Diocese of Springfield has issued a statement deploring the vote of the United Nations' General Assembly equating Zionism with racism.

The Bishop's statement follows:

"The distressing vote of the United Nations designating Zionism as a form of racism is a rebuff to human dignity. Men of all religions and certainly we as Catholics grieve the passage of such an amendment and express to our brothers and sisters in the Jewish Community of the Springfield, Ill. Diocese our profound compassion.

"It is our hope and prayer that the rising indignation of people throughout the nation and the world will result in the rescinding of this vote."

Masquers present 'Tom Sawyer'

The stage of the Granite City South High School auditorium will come alive with the carefree atmosphere of mid-nineteenth century Hannibal, Mo. Sunday afternoon at 2 when The Masquers, Inc. presents "Tom Sawyer".

A performance will also be given Saturday afternoon at the BAC Miners Theater in Collinsville.

"Tom Sawyer" tells the story of the mischievous but basically good-hearted Tom Sawyer and his simple, backwoods friend, Huck Finn, entrusted with the care of her young nephew and forced to deal with his childish pranks, admires his creative imagination but also realizes her obligation to teach him proper behavior.

In the course of events, Tom and Huck become involved in both real and imaginary adventures. The children in the audience are invited to follow the two boys' adventures and thereby, to discover the difference between childhood games and grown-up responsibility, as do Huck and Tom.

Mark Twain's "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" has been a book of interest for both children and adults alike since its publication in 1876. In the preface to his work, Twain wrote: "Although my book is intended mainly for the entertainment of boys and girls, I hope it will not be shunned by men and women on that account, for part of my plan has been to try to pleasantly remind adults of what they once were themselves, and of how they felt and thought and talked, and what queer enterprises they sometimes engaged in."

The Masquers' stage adaptation of the book issues the same invitation to the Granite City public, the director said. The cast of "Tom Sawyer" features twenty-one residents of Granite City, including Judy Padgett as Aunt Polly, Mark Stephens as Sid Sawyer, Robin Nunn as Muff Potter, and Ed Hesselberg as Jim Swallow. Collinsville, a teacher at Grigsby Junior High School, directs the show.

State education board to stress equal opportunity

The State Board of Education directed during the weekend that policies, procedures and guidelines be established to insure "equal opportunity and affirmative action in educational employment and instructional programs."

The board adopted a policy statement urging that steps be taken by school districts, the Illinois Office of Education and those dealing with the state education agency to comply with state and federal regulations regarding affirmative action and non-discrimination.

The Illinois Board of Education acknowledged "moral and statutory responsibility for matters related to employment as well as education. The board is committed to a policy of equal treatment and equality of opportunity in education and employment for all students and employees void of discriminatory regard for race, sex, color, national origin, religion, age or physical handicap."

"The board acknowledges that affirmative steps must be taken to create learning and work environments which allow for and ensure the fullest development of individual potential."

"Compliance will be required of those who conduct business or enter into contractual agreements with the board and the Office of Education, including consultants, contractors, vendors and suppliers of goods and services."

"Local educational agencies and systems are to be evaluated for compliance with applicable state and federal ordinances pertaining to equal opportunity and affirmative action in educational employment and instructional programs."

"In addition, technical assistance in the development of affirmative action plans will be made available to schools upon request or as required to meet statutory obligations of the board."

"The Board of Education will review on a biennial basis the equal opportunity and affirmative action status of the Illinois Office of Education."

"The status of local educational agencies or systems shall be reviewed annually. When necessary, recommendations shall be made to the superintendent regarding appropriate measures to be taken in order to facilitate regulation or effect compliance," the policy concludes.
